Passing of decrees by Registrar on confession.

24. (1) If, before the date appointed for the hearing of a suit, the defendant or his agent duly authorised in that behalf appears before the Registrar and admits the plaintiff's claim, the Registrar may, if the Judge is absent, and an Additional Judge has not been appointed or, having been appointed, is also absent, pass against the defendant, upon the admission, a decree, which shall have the same effect as a decree passed by the Judge. [Act XI, 1865, ss. 38 and 48.]

(2) Where a decree has been passed by the Registrar under sub-section (1), the Judge may grant an application for review of judgment and re-hear the suit, on the same conditions, on the

(2) The Judge, in the case of any decree or order with respect to the execution of which the Registrar has made an order under sub-section (1), and the Additional Judge, in the case of any such decree or order made by himself, may, within fifteen days from the date of the order of the Registrar or of the execution of any process issued in pursuance of that order, reverse or modify the order, either of his own motion or on the application of a party.

(2) If a Judge, Additional Judge or ministerial officer aforesaid practises, acts or is concerned in any trade or profession, in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1), he shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 168 of the Indian Penal Code. [XLV 1860.]

(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prohibit a Judge, Additional Judge or ministerial officer from being a member of an incorporated or registered company.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE suits cognizable in Courts of Small Causes are, subject to certain provisoes, described in section 6, Act XI of 1865, as "claims for money due on bond or other contract, or for rent, or for personal property, or for the value of such property, or for damages, when the debt, damage or demand does not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred rupees whether on balance of account or otherwise": and section 586 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides that "no second appeal shall lie in any suit of the nature cognizable in Courts of Small Causes, when the amount or value of the subject-matter of the original suit does not exceed five hundred rupees." Since section 6 of the Act of 1865 was enacted, a vast quantity of case-law has grown up around it, and, as the rulings of the Courts have not been uniform, doubts constantly arise on the question whether a suit is or is not a suit of the nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, and, consequently, whether or not, where the suit is of value not exceeding five hundred rupees and the original decree made in it was not final but was open to appeal, an appeal will also lie from the appellate decree in the suit. It appears to the Government of India that the conflicting constructions placed on section 6, of which some are due to the progress of legislation during the last twenty years (I. L. R. 3 All. 66), render a more accurate definition necessary of the suits of which Courts of Small Causes may take cognizance, and that legislation to this end should follow sections 18 and 19 of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882, in declaring the jurisdiction of those Courts to extend to all suits of a civil nature, subject to specified exceptions. This Bill has accordingly been prepared, its primary object being to remove the doubts now felt as to the effect of section 6, Act XI of 1865; and, as several sections and parts of sections of that Act have, from time to time, been repealed and other sections are obsolete as regards both expression and utility, it has been considered desirable to repeal the Act and re-enact the substance of the extant portions of it.

2. The parts of the Bill which appear to call for remark will be noticed in the following paragraphs.

3. Section 3.—The limited extent of the savings in this section, as compared with section 12 of the Act of 1865, is due to the Government of India having decided to move the legislature to repeal Act XI of 1841, and connected Acts, regarding Military Courts of Requests for Native Officers and Soldiers, and so much of Bombay Regulation XXII of 1827 as relates to the trial of small suits by superintendents of bázárs in military stations in the presidency of Bombay.

4. Section 8.—Inconvenience has resulted from the restrictive terms in which section 15 of the Act of 1865 was drawn. It is proposed, therefore, to empower Local Governments to appoint Additional Judges without limit of time.

5. Section 9.—Sections 29 and 30, Act XI of 1865, appear to be little, if at all, used. It seems unnecessary, therefore, to retain them. If it is deemed desirable that two Judges should anywhere sit together as a bench for the trial of particular suits or classes of suits, a bench can be constituted under section 9 of the Bill, corresponding with section 31 of the Act of 1865.

6. Section 17.—This section declares the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes to extend to all suits, subject to certain exceptions specified in the second schedule to the Bill.

7. Second Schedule.—This schedule follows, with slight modifications section 19 of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882, so far as that section goes.

8. As regards No. (11) of the suits specified in the schedule, it has been held that suits for the redemption of a mortgage of moveable property (16 W. R. 58) or for the sale of moveable property by enforcement of lien (9 W. R. 136) do not now, and (I. L. R. 7 All. 855) ought not to, lie in a Court of Small Causes.

9. The suits referred to in No. (20) are of two descriptions—

(a) by a decree-holder to have the right of his judgment-debtor declared to property of which the attachment has been raised; and

(b) by the owner of attached property, after disallowance of his objection to the attachment, either against the decree-holder or an auction-purchaser, to recover the property.

Suits of description (a); being suits for declaratory decrees, appear to have been held by most, if not all, High Courts not to be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes (10 W. R. 141; I. L. R. 4 Bom. 503; 3 All. H. C. Rep. 156: Panjab Record, No. 84 of 1870). As to suits of description (b), there is a conflict of authority (I. L. R. 7 All. 152, and cases there cited). It would seem, apart from section 6 of Act XI of 1865, that if suits of the one description ought not to be cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, the jurisdiction of those Courts ought to be barred in respect of suits of the other description also.

10. The suits referred to in No. (30) are of superior importance, and there should be a right of appeal from decrees passed in them. The rulings at I. L. R. 3 All. 747, and in the cases there cited, were made solely with reference to the language of section 6 of the Act of 1865. Most of these suits have been excluded from the jurisdiction of Presidency Small Cause Courts.

11. As regards the suits which No. (32) is intended to exclude from the jurisdiction of Courts of Small Causes, Westropp, C. J., has observed that "the very possible necessity of varying the maintenance from time to time, and of enquiring into the circumstances of the claimant, or of the family estate, or the family itself, shows how unsuitable maintenance suits are for the Small Cause Courts" (I. L. R. 2 Bom. 630). Arrears of maintenance are usually claimed on one of four grounds—

(a) the legal right of the plaintiff to maintenance;
(b) a decree of Court;
(c) an award of arbitrators fixing the maintenance; or (d) a special bond or other contract for the payment of maintenance.

Suits on ground (a) involve intricate questions of title, and those on grounds (b) and (c) have been held not to be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes (6 All. H. C. Rep. 91, and cases there cited; 3 All. H. C. Rep. 117 and 7 All. H. C. Rep. 329). Suits on ground (d) are at present cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. But, seeing that even in those suits questions may be raised as to re-adjustment of maintenance (5 C. L. R. 18), and possibly as to forfeiture (I. L. R. 7 Bom. 84), it seems desirable that suits for maintenance generally, including suits of the kind referred to at I. L. R. 7 Bom. 537, should be excluded from the jurisdiction of Courts of Small Causes.

12. As regards No. (33), reference may be made to 1 All. H. C. Rep. 205, and I. L. R. 1 All. 444, 2 All. 905, and 9 Cal. 183. Moreover, in suits which No. (33) is intended to cover, claims may be, and often are, included which ought not to be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes.

13. As regards Nos. (34) and (35), reference may be made to the case reported at I. L. R. 5 All. 438. It seems proper that such a suit as is there described, involving, as it may, intricate village-accounts and important questions of right, should not be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. Moreover, the decree in the suit should be open to appeal, as ordinarily the decree of a Revenue Court would be in a suit by a recorded co-sharer against a lambardár.

14. There appears to be no sufficient reason for excluding any suits for contribution from the jurisdiction of Courts of Small Causes, except the suits referred to in Nos. (36) and (38). As to the cognizance of suits for contribution generally under the Act of 1865, there has been some conflict of authority, the High Court at Fort William holding them not to be cognizable by Courts of Small Causes (B. L. R., F. B., 675, and I. L. R. 10 Cal. 388), and the High Courts at Madras and Allahabad holding them to be cognizable by those Courts (5 Mad. H. C. Rep. 200, and I. L. R. 3 All. 66).

There would seem, apart from section 6 of Act XI of 1865, to be no sufficient ground for excluding from the cognizance of a Court of Small Causes such a suit as that reported at I. L. R. 7 All. 378.

15. No. (38) will exclude the following among other suits:—

(a) suits for compensation for infringing copyright (I. L. R. 6 Cal. 499);
(b) suits for compensation for infringing the exclusive privilege of an inventor (Act XV, 1859, section 22);
(c) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States (Act XIV, 1882, section 433);
(d) suits for dissolution of marriage or judicial separation (Act IV, 1869); and (e) suits founded on the liability of a contributory (Act VI, 1882, section 125).

16. Sections 19 and 34.—As to the second proviso to section 21 of the Act of 1865, reference may be made to I. L. R. 6 Cal. 236 and 8 Cal. 287. As the law now stands, a person wishing to have a decree set aside may apply for (a) a new trial under section 21, Act XI of 1865, or (b) a review under Chapter XLVII of the Code, or (c) both a new trial and a review. "It is difficult," as observed by the learned Chief Justice of the High Court at Fort William, "to conceive any reasons which would justify a new trial which would not also afford good grounds for a review" (I. L. R. 6 Cal. 238). It is proposed, therefore, to replace the alternative or cumulative remedies of new trial and review by the single remedy of review, but to impose on applications for review restrictions similar to those imposed by the existing law on applications for new trial.

17. Section 21.—This section supplements section 223 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which extends to Courts of Small Causes. Section 20 of the Act of 1865, which the section supersedes, appears in some places to have been construed to require a decree-holder to proceed in the first instance against moveable property even when the moveable property of the judgment-debtor is known to be of no appreciable value.

18. Section 26.—Under section 45 of the Act of 1865, it is the duty of the Clerk of the Court to "take charge of and keep an account of all moneys payable or paid into or out of Court" and to "enter an account of all such moneys in a book belonging to the Court to be kept by such Clerk for that purpose." The terms of that section have been held to preclude the transfer of the duty of receiving moneys and keeping accounts in a Court of Small Causes to the special staff of accountants which in some provinces is employed at the head-quarters of each district to receive and account for moneys paid into the Civil Courts located there. It has been provided in section 26 of the Bill that the High Court may, if it sees fit, relieve the clerk of the Court of his duties as cashier and accountant.

19. Section 32.—The High Court for the North-Western Provinces has held (5 All. H. C. Rep. 55) that section 51 of the Act of 1865 does not authorise the Local Government to permanently and unconditionally invest the Judge of a Small Cause Court with the powers of a Principal Sadr Amín, and that the section only contemplates an occasional investment of the powers, and one contingent on the state of the business of the Court. Under section 32 of the Bill the question will not again arise.

20. In sections 32 and 33 regard has been had to I. L. R. 8 Bom. 230, 9 Bom. 237, 1 All. 87, 1 All. 624, and 3 All. 710. It has been made clear that, for the purposes of sections 223 and 295 of the Code of Civil Procedure and section 21 of the Bill, the Court of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes when the Judge is acting as such, and the Court of the same Judge when the Judge has been appointed to be and is acting as a Subordinate Judge, are different Courts, and that, for the same purposes, the Court of a Subordinate Judge when the Judge is acting as such, and the Court of the same Judge when the Judge has been invested with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes and is exercising that jurisdiction, are different Courts.

21. The first proviso to section 21 of Act XI of 1865 has been omitted because its retention has been rendered unnecessary by the extension of section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure to Courts of Small Causes.

22. Section 52 of the Act of 1865 has been omitted, as it is believed not to be used.

23. It is proposed by the first schedule to make section 648 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which extends to the Presidency Small Cause Courts, extend also to Provincial Courts of Small Causes.

24. It is proposed by the same schedule to repeal so much of the second schedule of the Code of Civil Procedure as extends sections 121 to 136 of the Code to Provincial Courts of Small Causes. These sections do not extend to Presidency Small Cause Courts, and their provisions, which contemplate elaborate and lengthened trials in suits of superior importance, are incompatible with the speedy disposal of the petty suits cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. The want of the sections is not likely to be really felt in Courts of Small Causes, while their application to those Courts is not unlikely to be taken advantage of for the purpose of delaying proceedings.

25. So much of sections 137, 447, 453, 454 and 456 of the Code of Civil Procedure as requires applications to Courts of Small Causes to be supported by affidavit is proposed to be repealed. Chapter XVI of the Code, respecting affidavits, does not extend to Provincial Courts of Small Causes.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 23rd December, 1885, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 20 OF 1885.

A Bill to amend Act XXXVI of 1858.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 (an Act relating to Lunatic Asylums) ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. After section 18 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely :—

"When an Executive Government has not established within its limits a public asylum for the reception and detention of lunatics under this Act, the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, appoint an asylum established in British India beyond those limits to be an asylum to which a Magistrate or Judge exercising jurisdiction within those limits may send lunatics as to an asylum established under this Act for the division in which his jurisdiction is situate."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN some of the smaller Provinces, such as Coorg and the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, the Local Governments have not established asylums under Act XXXVI of 1858 for the reception and detention of lunatics. Occasions have, however, arisen on which inconvenience has been experienced by reason of there not being asylums to which Magistrates exercising jurisdiction in those Provinces may send lunatics under the provisions of the Act. The object of this Bill is to enable the Governor General in Council to appoint asylums to which lunatics may be sent from those Provinces.

ADMINISTRATION OF WARDS' AND ATTACHED ESTATES IN THE LOWER PROVINCES DURING THE YEAR 1884-85.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 31st November 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

THE report of the Board of Revenue on Wards' and Attached Estates in the Lower Provinces for 1884-85.

This report has been submitted after time, owing to delays in the submission of reports by Commissioners—the report for the Patna Division alone having reached the Board's office on the prescribed date. The Board rightly observe that the blame for delay rests with Managers whom the Board very properly intend to call to account. The delay in this as in former years is most marked in the case of the Presidency Division.

2. There were 107 Wards' estates and 90 attached estates (including encumbered and trust estates) under management of the revenue authorities during the year 1884-85. In the preceding year the numbers were respectively 113 and 93. The year began with an arrear demand from these estates on account of rent and cesses of Rs. 50,68,046. The current demand for the year was Rs. 52,56,826 (viz. for rent Rs. 49,42,904 and for cesses Rs. 3,13,922). The total demand, arrear and current, was thus Rs. 1,03,24,872. Out of this demand the collections (including advance collections of Rs. 5,256) amounted to Rs. 48,93,923, while Rs. 14,14,567 were remitted. The balances outstanding at the end of the year amounted to Rs. 40,21,638.

Thus the percentage of collections (93·0) was almost the same as in the preceding year, which, however gives the worst percentage since 1880. Rent collections were best in the Orissa Division, where they made up a percentage of 101·3 on the current demand, and were worst in the Bhagulpore Division, where they made up 84·1 per cent. only of the current demand. In the Burdwan, Bhagulpore and Rajshahye Divisions collections were bad on account of indifferent harvests. In the Dacca Division it is said that "exceptional difficulties are experienced in collection by reason of the radically bad system on which zemindars have kept their accounts, and the consequent uncertainty as to the demands really valid." The Manager of the Dhankoora estate writes:—

"In the time of the late proprietors, the naibs, tehsildars, and other collecting agents in Mymensingh used to keep no proper records, but would satisfy the zemindars by showing a fictitious and an inflated rent-roll of an increased jumma, adding that they have been able to effect an enormous increase from year to year, which I have found the ryots know nothing of. At the time of collecting rents from, and giving dakhilahs to, ryots, they used to give receipts for arrear and current demand, so that the ryots could not know how much was current and how much arrear. They used to be kept altogether in the dark about the rates of rental payable by each."

The provisions of the Tenancy Act regarding accounts and receipts will no doubt effect an improvement in this matter.

In Resolutions on previous Wards' Reports the Lieutenant-Governor called attention to the necessity of examining the accounts of Wards' estates and writing off them all balances which were clearly irrecoverable Effective action has now been taken in the direction indicated, and the large sums written off as irrecoverable are a noticeable feature of the year's administration. Twelve lakhs and forty thousand rupees of the total amount remitted were written off in the two estates of Srinagar in Bhagulpore and Sultangacha in Burdwan. It is mentioned that much enquiry remains to be made in the Dhankoora estate with regard to the doubtful and disputed balances which are set down as amounting to Rs. 1,96,366. The Board point out that at the end of the year the balances due from all estates under management amounted to 70 per cent. of their income, and they remark that "a balance of this amount, that is, of seven to eight months' rent and cesses, may be considered as normal in Wards' estates under present conditions. The arrears on Government estates at the end of 1884-85 amounted to 43 per cent. of the current demand, or five months' income." The Lieutenant-Governor does not clearly understand what meaning the Board wish to convey by the words which he has italicised in this quotation, but it seems to him that from a system of fair and equitable rents and good administration we are justified in expecting that the normal balance should be very considerably less than 70 per cent.

3. Payment of Government revenue of rent to superior landlords and of debts.—Payments, both of revenue due to Government and of rent due to superior landlords, fell short of the current demands of the year, the balances under each head being heaviest in the Dacca Division. The punctual payment of these demands has been frequently insisted upon by the Lieutenant-Governor. Even if no higher considerations were involved, punctual payment of the State dues should be regarded as imperative because of the unremunerated services rendered to those estates by the district and other higher officers of Government. Sir Rivers Thompson understands the Board to take a decided view on this matter, and he begs they will have it enforced.

4. Management, surveys, and records of rights.—Management charges proper (including Manager's pay, establishment, and contingencies) amounted to Rs. 5,38,618, or 10·2 per cent. of the current rent and cess demands. Including Rs. 18,110 spent on buildings and Rs. 69,998 spent on survey and settlement, the total expenditure classified under the head of management amounted to Rs. 6,26,726, making up a percentage of 11·9 on the current rent and cess demands. Expenditure on establishment was highest in the Bhagulpore Division, where it stood at 13 per cent., and was lowest in the Presidency Division, where it was 8 per cent. only of the current rent and cess demands. The Lieutenant-Governor will await the Board's proposals for revision of the rules with regard to the levy of the management rate. Expenditure on survey and settlements was considerable only in the Chota Nagpore and Rajshahye Divisions. It is stated that surveys and the preparation of records of rights were carried on during the year in 19 estates only. A special report has been called for from the Board as to the necessity for creating a special agency for the supervision and maintenance of records of rights in Wards' and Government estates, and the Lieutenant-Governor will reserve his remarks upon this subject until receipt of this report. Sir Rivers Thompson approves the instructions which have been issued by the Board, enjoining frequent inspections by Commissioners and Collectors, and by the Director of the Agricultural Department, when on tour, of the maps and records in Managers' offices.

5. Works of improvement.—The following statement shows the expenditure on works of improvement on all the estates under management during the year:—

The Board comment as follows on this expenditure:—

"If the expenditure upon the Ranchi bungalows be deducted, the remaining amount spent on agricultural improvements was Rs. 52,101, or about one per cent. on the income of the estates under management. In the Burdwan Division attempts were made to introduce the Beheea sugar mills, chain pumps, an improved plough, potatoes, and Carolina paddy. In the Presidency Division potatoes and the Bombay sugarcane were introduced with success on one estate, and some Beheea sugarcane mills were purchased. In Rajshahye something was also spent on the purchase of improved sugarcane mills: ploughs and seeds, and jungle was cleared to a small extent. Of Rs. 8,131 spent in Bhagulpore, Rs. 7,690 came from the funds of the Chanchal estate, on which, under the able superintendence of Mr. Reily, a considerable amount of good work was done in improving roads and markets, planting bamboos, and settling Sonthals. In Patna a valuable work is noticed—the reconstruction of an ancient irrigation work in the estate of Despati Sing in Shahabad. The cultivation of the potato was introduced in the Sasseram estate in that district. The principal work in all the divisions were those connected with the storage and distribution of water, as embankments, channels for irrigation, and drainage works........................ On some wards' estates it is impossible to effect substantial improvements, as large debts have in the first instance to be paid; but looking to the fact that Rs. 4,76,567 were invested in Government securities during the year, it is evident that want of funds is not the only reason for the inadequacy of the works undertaken. In the whole division of Dacca there was no expenditure on improvements. It is believed that the action of Managers in this respect is influenced by the example of the less intelligent of the private owners of land, and that they do not always sufficiently realize that it is the policy of Government rather to expend on remunerative works than to hoard the surplus accumulation of wards' estates. Many Managers also want both the will and the ability to plan and supervise works of agricultural improvement. Now that an Agricultural Department has been created, managers should be able to obtain more readily skilled advice which will facilitate the execution of beneficial works on a larger scale. It is certainly matter of regret that during the year the expenditure on law charges was three times as much as that upon agricultural improvements."

In the concluding observations the Lieutenant-Governor entirely concurs, and he is glad to see that the Board are alive to the necessity, which has been so strongly and frequently urged in former Resolutions, of regarding the question of agricultural improvements in Wards' Estates one of growing importance and urgency, while anything in the nature of mere speculative investments should be avoided. Money should be judiciously spent on all improvements calculated to enhance the rent-roll or secure its stability.

6. Operation of the certificate procedure and condition of the tenantry.—Eight thousand certificates were filed during the year for the recovery of rent amounting to Rs. 2,54,012, i.e., for an amount aggregating 5·1 per cent. of the whole annual rental of the estates under management. The number of certificates filed in each of the last three years has exceeded 12,000. The decrease in the year under review is therefore very satisfactory as indicative of greater care in working the Act.

On the condition of the tenantry the Board make the following remarks:—

"The condition of the tenantry was good during the year in the Eastern Divisions, Chittagong, and Dacca, and also, with some exceptions, in Orissa. In Bhagulpore, Rajshahye, Patna, Chota Nagpore, and the Presidency Division it varied a great deal on different estates as explained in the body of the report with the character of the harvests. In Burdwan the partial failure of the crops caused some distress on all estates, and to the poorer class of ryots the year is said to have been one of considerable embarrassment. The relations between the managing agency and the ryots have been generally satisfactory."

Education of Wards—Minors of a suitable age are as a rule educated in the zillah and other schools of their own districts, but to those whose incomes admit of it a special tutor is attached. Other minors are being educated at various colleges, private tutors being also occasionally employed to instruct and direct them in their studies. The Board's report on this important head is generally satisfactory. When each minor reaches the age of 18, he is then, in addition to the ordinary subjects of a liberal education, taught the principles of zemindari business, and practically inducted into the management of his own estate.

7. The Board as usual append to their report a detailed account of the management of estates in each Division. This account the Lieutenant-Governor has perused, and a summary of it has been prepared for record in this Department. It does not, however, bring to light any matter of sufficient general importance to be noticed in this review.

The Lieutenant-Governor has to thank the Board for their administration of a most important department. The discussions of principles which occupied so largely the pages of previous reports and resolutions have now given place to the record of their practical application, and it is to be hoped that the history of each succeeding year will be a history of continued advancement in the direction now entered upon.

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE PROGRESS REPORT OF THE BENGAL ECONOMIC MUSEUM FOR 1884-85.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS (F).

Calcutta, the 29th December 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Progress Report of the Bengal Economic Museum for 1884-85.

This report, which is a very interesting one, is published for general information.

When the Economic Museum was established by Sir George Campbell in 1874, it was stated that its object was not to bring together "things ornamental or curious, still less specimens of fine art, but specimens of the ordinary products of Bengal, of its agriculture, its minerals, its manufactures, and its forests and wastes."

Summaries of the progress of the Economic Museum, which bring its history up to the time of the Calcutta International Exhibition of 1883-84, are given in the Government Resolutions on the Committee's Reports for the years 1881-82 and 1882-83. At the end of 1883 the collections, which numbered about 15,000 specimens, were temporarily transferred to the care of the Executive Committee of the Calcutta Exhibition, and were exhibited in the Economic Courts of that Exhibition. Two medals and three diplomas were awarded to the Bengal Government at that Exhibition for the collections of the Museum.

After the close of the Calcutta Exhibition in March 1884 it was ordered that the original collections should be returned to the custody of the Central Committee, Bengal Economic Museum, and the following important additions were made to them, viz., the large collection of economic products made under the orders of the Government of India for the International Exhibition; the large and valuable collection of art products of India purchased by the Bengal Government at the Exhibition; the valuable collections of models and ethnological objects prepared for the Exhibition; and the exhibits presented to the Bengal Government by Colonial Governments and private exhibitors.

On making over the collections to the Indian Museum, the altered conditions of the Museum necessitated a change in its designation, so as to adequately indicate its character: and it is at present known as the "Bengal Economic and Art Museum." Proposals for bringing the Economic Museum into more intimate relationship with the Indian Museum, and for reorganizing the School of Art and Art Gallery, are now under the consideration of Government: the decision which may be come to on these proposals will determine the future arrangements for disposal of the Art collections which are now in the charge of the Committee of the Provincial Museum.

Until also such a decision is arrived at, plans for increasing the accommodation at the disposal of the Committee of the Provincial Museum cannot be finally passed.

The task of re-arranging the Economic and Art exhibits, after the confusion which followed the close of the Calcutta International Exhibition, has been an arduous one, and on account of limited accommodation it has not yet been satisfactorily accomplished.

During the period of re-arrangement of the Courts, the Museum necessarily remained closed to the public, but after the general arrangement of the exhibits had been completed, it was opened by the Lieutenant-Governor in the early part of December 1884, simultaneously with the Soldiers' Industrial Exhibition, and has since been open to visitors. Since February 1885, after the closing of the Soldiers' Exhibition, a register of visitors has been kept, which shows that 30,432 persons visited the Museum during February and March 1885.

During the year a collection of trade samples of economic products, numbering 538 specimens, was prepared, and has been made over since the close of 1884-85 to the Agri-Horticultural Society for exhibition in the Metcalfe Hall.

Sir Rivers Thompson takes this opportunity of thanking the Committee for the progress which has been made in reorganizing the Museum. The lamented death of Dr. McCann during the year under review deprived the Committee of an able and zealous Secretary, and the Government of a very efficient and promising officer.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

PROGRESS REPORT OF THE ECONOMIC MUSEUM, BENGAL.

No. 3915, dated Calcutta, the 14th November 1885.

From—HORACE A. COCKERELL, ESQ., Chairman, Bengal Economic Museum,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

I HAVE the honour to forward herewith the progress report of this Museum for the official year ending 31st March 1885, and to request you to be so kind as to send 30 copies of the report, when printed, for distribution amongst the members of the Central Committee.

Progress Report of the Bengal Economic Museum for the year 1884-85.

IN the Annual Report of the previous year, it was mentioned that the collections belonging to the Museum, which had been lent to the late Calcutta International Exhibition and exhibited in the Economic Court, had been again handed over to the Museum at the commencement of the year under review. These economic collections had been supplemented by the large collection which had been made under the orders of the Revenue and Agricultural Department, Government of India, for the purpose of the Exhibition, and the two collections had been amalgamated during the Exhibition, and the whole of the combined collection was handed over to the Museum. In addition to these collections, the large and valuable collections of art products of India, which had been purchased by the Bengal Government from the Exhibition, were handed over to the Museum. Further, a large collection of models and ethnological objects which had been brought together for the Exhibition were transferred to the Economic Museum, and finally the presentation exhibits which had been made to the Bengal Government by various Colonial Governments and private exhibitors were handed over at the same time.

2. It will be seen by these additions that the scope of the Bengal Economic Museum has been much widened, and it will be perhaps desirable that some more comprehensive title than the former one should be adopted for it. In certain letters written by the Bengal Government, the former title has lately been changed into the "Bengal Economic and Art Museum;" but even this title, it will be seen, scarcely defines the full extent of the Museum.

3. It is much to be regretted that all these collections, except the presentations to Government last alluded to, were handed over to the Museum in a state of entire disorder, and it was clear that little or no care had been taken of these collections at the close of the Exhibition. In the case of the economic collection formerly belonging to the Meseum, it had been treated so badly previous to the opening of Exhibition itself, and at its close it had been so hurriedly dismantled, that the value of the collection had almost entirely disappeared.

4. During the year under review, the late Dr. M'Cann, who was Secretary to the Museum, submitted a strongly worded description of the chaotic and fragmentary state of the collections which he was required to take charge of. Portions of this report on the state of the collections were included in the Administration Report of the past year, and it is not therefore necessary to enlarge on the subject in the present report.

5. The collections which had thus been transferred to the Museum naturally arrange themselves under four heads—viz. Art manufactures, Economic products, including timber and forest produce, Ethnological objects, and the collection of presentation objects which might be grouped under the head of Industrial products.

6. It having been decided that the Hastings Street Museum was to be abandoned, and that the whole collections were to be exhibited in the buildings to the south of the Imperial Museum which had been erected for the late Calcutta International Exhibition, the whole energies of the Economic Museum staff have been directed to evolve order out of the extreme disorder in which the articles were handed over to the Museum.

7. The condition in which the collections were received has, however, rendered the task of arrangement an extremely difficult one, and the collections have had to be steadily worked at for the whole of the year; and though an additional staff was sanctioned and employed on this work, yet the task was of such a nature, that only the general arrangement of the exhibits could be completed, and the detailed arrangement of a considerable part of the collection—and of Ethnology Court in particular—had to be postponed to be taken up more leisurely. This general arrangement of the exhibits was completed in the month of September 1884, and a report that this was the case was submitted to Government in Central Office, Calcutta International Exhibition letter No. 2—399, dated the 16th September 1884.

8. The whole of the articles were arranged in five of the Courts attached to the Imperial Museum in Chowringhee, and though these collections are in all instances far from complete, they form an excellent nucleus from which a thoroughly complete and representative Museum may be developed.

9. The articles have been arranged, as far as possible, in the following five separate Courts:—

1. Indian Art Maufactures' Court, comprising principally art-ware and art-manufactures.
2. Ethnology Court.
3. Economic Court.
4. Timber Court.
5. Court containing the various European exhibits presented to Government, and which may be called the Industrial Court.

10. The following is a very brief description of the distribution of the Courts, and of the manner in which they have been arranged:—

(a) The first Court in the above list is the permanent annexe to the south of the Imperial Museum which faces Chowringhee Road, and which was used during the late Exhibition as the Jewellery Court. This Court may perhaps be appropriately called the "Art Court." In this Court the art, and to a certain extent the industrial, products of India have been collected, and it has proved by far the most instructive and attractive to ordinary visitors. The collection in this Court is of great value, and it is arranged, so far as can be done, into such sections as Indian fabrics, embroidery, Indian pottery and porcelain, carved stonework, glass-ware, small clay models, carpets and rugs, ivory and horn manufactures, wood carving and lacquered-ware and metal-ware, including gold and silver jewellery, brass and copper-ware, inlaid and damascened work, &c.

(b) The great difficulty which has been experienced in the arrangement of this Court is that it is very much overcrowded, and particularly in the case of Indian fabrics, &c., only a small proportion of these can be properly displayed.

(c) The second or Ethnological Court, as at first arranged, was to the east of the permanent annexe, and was during the Exhibition occupied by the Tasmanian exhibits. The collection of ethnological models and of ethnological articles contained in this Court was in some respects very incomplete, and was scarcely large enough to fill it properly, and the consequence is that it will have to be enlarged considerably in order to make it a really successful exhibit. Notwithstanding, however, that the Court is by no means complete, it must be considered of exceptional value from a scientific point of view. During the late Exhibition representatives of various aboriginal and border tribes were brought down to Calcutta, and advantage was taken of this opportunity to obtain full-sized and life-like models of a considerable number of tribes of which only bare descriptions have previously been published, or of which at the utmost only photographs had been secured.

(d) In this respect the new Museum is quite unique, and to possess similar collections appears to be the desire of those in charge of other ethnological museums That this is the case is seen by the fact that already the authorities of some of the continental museums of Europe are applying to have copies of these models made for their museums. It is therefore to be hoped that efforts will be made to render this collection still more complete than it is at present, for there are opportunities of this kind in India which are unapproached in almost any other country.

(e) The collection of the Assam hill and frontier tribes is fairly complete, and it contains models of Khasias, Jaintias, Garos, Singphos, Manipuris, Dufflas, Hill Miris, Kamptics, Mishmis, Mikirs, Nagas, and Banpara Nagas. There are also models of Nicobarese, Andamanese, Karens, and some of the Central Indian tribes, but the Central Indian tribes are very poorly represented. In each case also an attempt has been made to secure a few objects of ethnological interest belonging to each tribe, such as their arms, implements, clothes, ornaments, &c., but in some cases there has been considerable want of success in this direction.

(f) The third or Economic Court is to the south of the last Court, and it contained formerly the New South Wales exhibits. In it are now placed the economic section of the collection made during the Exhibition, together with the collection formerly exhibited in the Economic Museum in Hastings Street. This latter was a very fairly complete and comprehensive collection of the economic products of Bengal, and amongst other things it contained no less than 4,000 specimens of different varieties of rice, but unfortunately it suffered considerable damage during the Exhibition, and is now by no means so complete or in such good order as it was formerly. It still, however, forms a valuable portion of the collections, and can again be rendered complete from the records of the Economic Museum. Another and even more valuable feature in this Court is the index collection of economic products which was made for the late Calcutta Exhibition by Babo Troilakhya

Nath Mukherjee, Officer in charge of the Exhibition Branch, Revenue and Agricultural Department, under the orders of Mr. Buck. This index collection contains nearly 9,000 specimens of various indigenous economic products, and as most of the specimens are in good order, it is from a scientific point of view of very great value.

The economic products in this Court are divided under the following principal heads:—

I.—Gums and resins containing	350	specimens.
II.—Dyes, tans, and mordants containing... ...	1,926	"
III.—Fibres and fibre-yielding plants containing ...	1,776	"
IV.—Oilseeds, oils, and perfumes containing ...	1,427	"
V.—Medicinal products including poisons containing...	3,792	"
VI.—Food-crops (rice, pulses, wheat, barley and millets) containing...	6,788	"
VII.—Tea and coffee, &c., containing	477	"
VIII.—Condiments and saccharine substances including honey containing	635	"
IX.—Cocoons and silks containing	453	"
X.—Salt containing	67	"
XI.—Opium, bhang and tobacco, and manufactures therefrom, containing	296	"
XII.—Models of clay edible fruits containing ...	193	"
XIII.— Do. of vegetables containing	62	"
Total ...	18,242	"

The fourth Court is that principally devoted to the Exhibition of various kinds of wood, and it may be appropriately called the "Timber Court." This collection occupies the wooden annexe facing the Chowringhee Road to the north of the main entrance of the Imperial Museum. This Court contained the Austrian exhibits during the late Exhibition.

In this collection there are a very large number of Indian woods which were brought together by the Indian Forest Department, the specimens of Indian woods alone numbering about 1,500. To this collection had been since added some 500 more specimens of wood which had been kept in the Economic Museum, Hastings Street, during the Exhibition. In the arrangement of these specimens, so far as has been possible, the name of the tree yielding each specimen block has been ascertained, and it has then been referred to its proper botanical "natural order," and the specimens are now shown under the natural order to which they belong, the arrangement of the natural orders being the same as that followed by Mr. Gamble in his "Manual of Indian Timbers." This arrangement has appeared to be the most scientific, and the one best calculated to show the connection between the woods yielded by the trees of the same natural order. It will also probably be found to be the arrangement which will be most convenient for reference by any person wanting to study this subject. As a certain proportion of the specimens of Indian woods remain still to be identified, the collection, though temporarily arranged, will be subject to re-arrangement later on. The presentations of timber from other Courts at the late Exhibition have also been arranged in this Court, and they are simply classified under the head of the country producing them.

The fifth and last Court is that which has been called the "Industrial Court," and is contained in the wooden annexe facing the Chowringhee Road on the south side of the main entrance of the Imperial Museum, and which was occupied by the German exhibits during the late Exhibition. This Court contains almost all the presentations made to Government from the British and other Courts. The Court, however, cannot be considered to be of great value, as a part of the collection, from a scientific point of view, for the articles contained in it, although in many cases individually of great value, are of such varied nature and class, and they represent so many branches of manufacturing industry, that in no case do they form a representative collection of any particular manufacture. As a nucleus of a larger collection, they would of course be more valuable than when arranged as they are at present.

11. It will, however, be noticed that four out of the five buildings in which the exhibits are collected are only of a temporary nature, and that two of them—those containing the Ethnology and Economic Courts—are temporary structures with corrugated iron roofs, which were only intended to last for the exhibition period. Owing to the temporary nature of these two sheds in particular, which are neither wind nor rain proof, great difficulty has been found in keeping the collections in them in good order. In the Ethnology Court in particular, where most of the exhibits could not be put in glass cases, first from the size of the models or figures, &c., and second for the want of appropriate glass show-cases, the articles suffered very great damage from the beating in of the rain and dust, and though every effort was made by the Museum staff to keep the inevitable damage done to a minimum, yet the damage was considerable. In the Economic Court, as all the exhibits are kept in cases, the damage from these causes has not been so serious as in the Ethnology Court.

12. In the case of the Ethnology Court, however, arrangements have been made since the close of the official year, by which the Museum has obtained possession of the pucca buildings formerly used as the Bengal Secretariat Printing Press, and by which a number of glass cases were transferred to the Economic from the Imperial Museum. It has now been found possible to arrange the ethnological collections formerly taken over from the Exhibition, together with a second ethnological collection which was handed over to the Economic Museum by the Imperial Museum, almost entirely in these new glass-cases in the pucca buildings above alluded to; so that only three of the Courts are housed in buildings of a temporary nature, and only one of these is such that there is no practical method of keeping out rain, wind, dust, &c. In addition to the above points, it may be remarked that, during the period when the Ethnological Court was in the temporary building, the articles were more or less liable to theft, and it was necessary to keep a strong staff of servants always on the watch while the Museum was open to the public; but this possibility has been done away with now by the use of the glass-cases.

13. It is desirable also to place on record the fact that in the Art-ware Court there is great room for improvement in some of the arrangements. As before stated, the Court is far too small for the exhibits, and a Court nearly double the size could be filled with the things which are now crowded together in the present one. Further large exhibits, such as valuable carpets, rugs, durries, mats, basket-work, musical instruments, &c., for want of other space and of glass show-cases, have to be exhibited by being hung round the walls, and though every possible care is taken to preserve them as far as practicable, it will be understood that it is only a question of time as to how long they will last under these conditions, and their general deterioration is a matter of certainty. These articles were of course exposed to the air in a similar manner during the whole of the Exhibition, and, when taken over by the Museum, their original beauty had been greatly destroyed by dust, dirt, &c., and they were also infested with moths, &c., which it was almost impossible to thoroughly remove. Every effort has been made to conserve such articles by periodical and careful cleaning, and by placing the carpets, &c., from time to time in boxes with camphor and other articles which destroyed insects; but even with the greatest care and attention a certain damage inevitably occurs during the rainy season in Calcutta, when articles such as those contained in the Art-ware Court have to be attended to almost daily to prevent them from being moth-eaten, mildewed, and from decaying generally. It will be necessary, in order to place this section of the exhibits on a satisfactory footing, to provide further accommodation, and to incur a large expenditure on show-cases.

14. It would be absolutely impossible to give any detailed lists of the articles which were handed over to the Museum subsequent to the close of the Exhibition, for apparently the articles were handed over to the Government officers who were charged with the duty of receiving them from the Exhibition authorities during the most utter confusion, and though lists of receipts were kept they were of little value; but since the articles have been taken over by the Economic Museum, it has been proved that many things which were supposed to have been transferred to Government are not in the collections. The utmost care has, however, been taken since the collections were handed over to prevent loss, and, so far as is known, no loss by theft, &c., has occurred since that period. A few articles have been added to the collections of the Museum during the current year. The following were articles which were ordered during the Exhibition period, but which were received subsequently:—

		Rs.	A.	P.
7 Lacquered specimens from Mysore ...	...	67	14	0
1 Ivory carved ornament from British Burmah	...	50	0	0
5 Gold ornaments	from Jeypore ...	455	0	0
18 Brass-ware	from Jeypore ...	170	3	0
16 Stone carvings	from Jeypore ...	175	6	0
50 Arms	from Jeypore ...	243	11	0
23 Textile fabrics	from Jeypore ...	130	11	0
32 Lacquered articles	from Jeypore ...	38	10	0
40 Pottery	from Jeypore ...	41	3	0
18 Water paintings	from Jeypore ...	21	10	0

These have been added to the Art collection.

15. The following articles were presented to the Museum:—

12 Thibetan carpets.

From Gwalior—3 silver work, 11 stone-carvings, 2 bidri, and two brass-ware.

From Kishengunge—31 specimens of wood-work.

These have also been placed in the Art Court.

16. The collection of timber, which was exhibited at the Edinburgh Forestry Exhibition, was also handed over to the Museum by Government. This collection numbers 578 specimens, and it is arranged alphabetically, and this collection is now exhibited in the Timber Court. It therefore forms a very valuable addition to the Timber Court, as it acts as a kind of index to the larger collections which were formerly in the Museum.

17. Two silver medals and three diplomas, which were gained by the Economic Museum at the late Calcutta International Exhibition, have been received, and the medals are now exhibited in the medal case in the Art-ware Court.

18. The following medals and diplomas have been received from the Government of Bengal for safe custody, and these medals are also exhibited in the Art-ware Court:—

1 Gold medal ...	Awarded to the Governments of India and Bengal by the London International Fisheries Exhibition, 1883.
1 Silver do. ...
3 Diplomas ...

1 Silver medal	...	To the Government of India by the Edinburgh Forestry Exhibition, 1884.
3 Silver medals	...	To the Government of Bengal by the Calcutta International Exhibition, 1883-84.
1 Bronze medal	...
1 Do. do.	...	In commemoration of the Calcutta International Exhibition, 1883-84.

19. In addition to the arrangement of the collections in the Exhibition buildings as above described, a considerable amount of work was done during the year in the formation of a collection of trade samples of economic products which were intended for presentation to the Agri-Horticultural Society for exhibition in the Metcalfe Hall. After some experiments had been made as to the form most suitable for the exhibition of trade samples, it was decided that most classes of specimens could be well shown, and in a form easy of practical access, by placing them in wooden boxes seven inches square and four inches deep, with glass covers let into wooden slots, and which could be lifted out in an instant. The covers are used to prevent insects from reaching the samples, while at the same time the specimen could be handled. These boxes were then exhibited in flat show-cases. The collection, as made, was only a tentative one, and it consisted of—

Gums and resins containing	22	specimens.
Dyes and tans "	30	"
Oilseeds "	46	"
Medicinal products "	71	"
Food-crops (rice, pulses, wheat, barley, millets, and Indian-corn) containing	345	"
Coffee containing	4	"
Condiments "	20	"
	538

This collection has been handed over to the Agri-Horticultural Society of India since the close of the financial year, and the collection will be gradually made more complete as opportunities occur.

20. The number of special reports asked for and prepared during the year has been much smaller than usual, and the only report submitted was one on Barilla.

21. Enquiries and references have as usual been made by private parties from time to time, and, so far as has been possible, their requirements have been complied with.

22. The Museum was, as stated in the last Administration Report, in charge of the late Dr. M'Cann at the commencement of the year; but after his death, which occurred on June 22nd, the Museum remained for a time in temporary charge of the Assistant Secretary, Baboo Sreenarain Dutta.

23. The Committee took occasion in the last Annual Report to refer at length to the loss which the Museum had sustained in the sudden death of Dr. M'Cann.

24. Mr. Alexander Pedler was afterwards appointed to officiate as Secretary, and took charge of the Museum on July 23rd, and has remained in charge up to the close of the official year.

25. The remaining part of the permanent staff of the Museum has been without change during the year, and it consists of the Assistant Secretary Baboo Sreenarain Dutta, the Head Assistant Mr. R. A. DeCruz, the Second Assistant Baboo Phonibhusan Dutta, and the Third and General Assistant Baboo Devendranath Dhar, together with one carpenter mistry, one duftri, one durwan, one peon, four bearers, and one sweeper.

26. A temporary staff consisting of four clerks, six bearers, and two durwans was employed in order to arrange the new collection from 1st August 1884 up to end of February 1885; but from this date the temporary staff was reduced to one clerk, six bearers, and two durwans. The staff now employed, consisting of both the temporary and permanent, seems to be the smallest possible for keeping the whole of the collections in order, and even with this staff the task of re-arranging, cataloguing, &c., will go on slowly.

27. At the time when the collections were handed back to the Museum, the Secretary was required to take charge of the Central Office of the late Calcutta International Exhibition, and to deal with and adjust the accounts of the purchases of the articles from the Exhibition made by the Bengal Government. The accounts have since been adjusted, and after having produced vouchers to the Accountant-General, Bengal, for the expenditure of the whole of the money which had been shown to have been received by the Central Office, it was found that there was still a balance in hand of Rs. 135-0-9, and some vouchers of payments made. This sum has since been, and is at present, used as a permanent advance for the Economic Museum; but though attempts have been made to trace the origin of this surplus, they have been in vain.

28. The accounts of the Central Office and of the purchases made were in extreme confusion, and a very large amount of work was necessary during the year in this direction.

29. As stated above, the collections of the Museum have been in the Chowringhee buildings throughout the year, but for a considerable part of the year the office and office records, &c., remained in the Hastings Street house. The office was afterwards removed to a part of the buildings formerly occupied by the Bengal Secretariat Press, and notice was given to the owners of No. 12, Hastings Street, that at the expiration of the lease the house would no longer be required by Government. The house has accordingly been vacated since the 15th June 1885.

30. During the period of the arrangement of the five Courts, the Museum necessarily remained closed to the public; but after the rough arrangement of the exhibits was finished, it was considered desirable by the Bengal Government to postpone the opening of the Museum till it could be opened simultaneously with the Soldiers' Industrial Exhibition, which had been arranged in the annexe between the Ethnology Court and the Imperial Museum. The opening ceremony was performed by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor in the early part of December 1884, and since that date, with the exception of Sundays and the usual holidays previously observed in the Museum, it has been continually open. It has also been found necessary to close the Museum on one day (Thursday) in each week in order to give opportunities to the staff to thoroughly cleanse the Courts, and to enable any new work to be done in the way of altering the arrangement of the exhibits, which work is almost impossible while the Museum is open, owing frequently to the crowded state of the Courts. During the period when the Soldiers' Industrial Exhibition was open, it is not perhaps too much to say that the visitors found the Bengal Economic Museum quite as attractive, if not more attractive, than the exhibits of soldiers. During this period no attempt was made to register the number of visitors to the Museum, as there was an entrance fee charged by the Soldiers' Exhibition; but after the Exhibition was closed, and after the goods there sold were removed, a regular register of attendance has been kept.

31. The following small table gives the attendance for the five months, February to June 1885, inclusive:—

Month.	European.		Native.		Total.
	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.
February 1885	272	45	9,807	1,569	11,693
March "	201	36	14,604	3,898	18,739
April "	90	34	8,638	2,789	11,551
May "	118	17	8,814	1,674	10,623
June "	99	21	12,049	2,987	15,156
Grand Total ...	780	153	53,912	12,917	67,762

The largest attendance on any one day was on 1st April, when 2,430 persons entered the Museum. These consisted of 2,428 natives (1,384 males and 1,044 females), and two Europeans (two males and 0 females.)

32. It will thus be seen that since the opening, the Museum has been very largely attended, and has apparently been very popular, and the total number of visitors in the five months has been 67,762. The number of visitors to the Economic Museum in former years has been very much smaller than those quoted above, and thus in the year 1883, during the same five months, only 413 persons visited the Museum, and in the corresponding periods of 1878 and 1877 only 473 and 403 respectively visited the Museum.

33. The Economic Museum has also during this year been honoured by the presence of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, and also by two visits from Her Excellency Lady Dufferin.

34. The additions to the Library of the Museum during the year have not been large, and they consist of 104 periodicals and 10 books, together with 9 reports from Government or from Societies.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS FOR MAKING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE PORT OF CALCUTTA FOR 1884-85.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MARINE—CALCUTTA PORT TRUST.

Calcutta, the 31st December 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Administration Report of the Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta for 1884-85.

The statement of liabilities and assets of the Trust shows that the consolidated repayable debt due to Government has been reduced by Rs. 1,03,694, and that a sum of Rs. 60,000 has been invested on account of the sinking fund for the debenture loans raised in 1881 and 1883. A temporary loan of Rs. 14,52,303 has been received from the Bank of Bengal to meet the ordinary port expenditure. A sum of Rs. 1,25,000 was also advanced by the Government of India to enable the Commissioners to meet payments on account of interest and sinking fund due on the 31st March last, and Rs. 15,00,000 to enable them to proceed with the acquisition of land for the Kidderpore Docks. The total amount of debts due by the Commissioners on the 31st March was as follows:—

	Rs.
Consolidated repayable debt due to Government ...	48,65,093
Port debt not repayable	17,65,000
Due on debenture loan of 1881	10,00,000
Ditto ditto of 1883	20,00,000
	96,30,093
Temporary loan raised from the Bank of Bengal ...	14,52,303
Total ...	1,10,82,396

2. The assets of the Trust, exclusive of the value of the foreshore and Strand Bank lands which were made over to them free of cost, amounted at the close of the year to Rs. 1.93,56,598, against Rs. 1,78,97,544 in the preceding year. This sum represents the value of the jetties, wharves, landing stages, tramways, docks, moorings, vessels, &c , belonging to the Trust, and the investments under the heads of Jetty Reserve, Jetty Insurance, Port Reserve, Depreciation and Debenture Loan Sinking Fund. The increase of Rs. 14,59,054 represents the value of new works executed during the year, and the investment for the Debenture Loan Sinking Fund. Of the new works the most noteworthy are the extension of jetty embankments, construction of jetty warehouses, as well as a warehouse at Juggernath Ghât, and the extension of moorings. The tramway from the boat wharf at Shalimar to the boundary of the premises of the East Indian Railway Company has been completed and opened for traffic. Fourteen hundred lineal feet of the wharf along the river frontage have also been completed during the year. Construction of a tea warehouse at Armenian ghât was commenced, but the work had to be stopped for want of funds.

3. The total income under the revenue accounts amounted to Rs. 31,06,720, against Rs. 29,26,120 in the previous year, thus showing an increase of Rs. 1,80,600. The total expenditure, including construction, sinking fund, port dues and new works amounted to Rs. 25,66,623. The balance at the close of the year was therefore Rs. 5,40.097. The capital account shows an income of Rs. 33,29,781. The whole of this amount has been expended.

4. The total income from the jetties amounted to Rs. 8,96,040, or Rs. 7,984 in excess of that of the previous year. The receipts from landing and shipping charges show a considerable decrease as compared with those of 1883-84, but were higher than they have ever been in any year previous to that year. The receipts from overtime fees also fell off, owing to night work having been stopped, except in cases where it was absolutely necessary. The income from all other sources shows an increase. There has also been an increase of Rs. 9,381 in the expenditure. This increase was chiefly under the heads of charges on account of interest and of renewal of block. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that the charge for working expenses decreased, notwithstanding extra labour entailed by the present system of warehousing at jetties. The net revenue from the jetties amounted to Rs. 2,91,765, against Rs. 2,93,162 in the past year.

5. The receipts from the 30-ton floating crane amounted to Rs. 61,394, and the cost of its maintenance, including salaries, working expenses, and repairs was Rs. 11,889, against Rs. 12,056 in the previous year These receipts were unusually large this year owing to the extra work done for the Bengal Flotilla Company in landing and again placing on board marine boilers for their steamers. A large cargo boat is under construction for service in connection with the crane. Should the present average of earnings continue, it will doubtless be possible, as the Commissioners suggest, to make some decrease in the rate of charges for heavy lifts.

6. The total income from inland vessels wharves was Rs. 3,55,081 as compared with Rs 3,55,467 in the previous year. The receipts from the new wharf on the Howrah side of the river, which was opened for traffic in September 1884, amounted to Rs. 23,168. The total expenditure was Rs. 2,14,991, against Rs. 1,99,279 in 1883-84. There was thus an increase of Rs. 15,712, which is due to the additional establishment employed on the wharves at Howrah and to interest on the loan raised for the new works at Shalimar, and the construction of a tramway connecting the East Indian Railway with the wharves at Shalimar Point. The net revenue derived from the wharves was Rs. 1,40,090, against Rs. 1,56,188 in 1883-84.

7. The receipts from the Strand Bank lands amounted to Rs 1,84,124, against Rs. 1,67,201 in the previous year. The increase of Rs. 16,923 is due in a great measure to the godowns constructed at the Juggernath Ghât for the East Indian Railway having been let out on hire, and to the renting out of an additional piece of land set free by the transfer of the Commissioners' workshop to Howrah. The lease of the land occupied by the Riverside Press Company expired during the year, and was renewed for a further period of ten years. A piece of land was also leased to the Bengal Flotilla Company for a term of five years.

8. The receipts in the Harbour Master's Department amounted to Rs. 5,57,906, or Rs. 8,163 less than those of the previous year. The decrease was chiefly under the head of Harbour Masters' earnings. The expenditure in this department amounted to Rs. 5,04,928, against Rs. 4,96,200 of the previous year, and the net revenue to Rs. 52,978.

The following statement shows the number of sea-going vessels that entered the port during the year, as compared with that of the previous two years:—

There has been a slight decrease in the number of both sailing vessels and steamers entering the port. One hundred and eighty-eight steamers came from European ports viâ the Suez Canal with an average tonnage of 3,186. The average tonnage of sailing vessels and steamers employed in the trade of the Calcutta Port was 1,311 and 2,337 respectively.

9. The number of casualties which occurred to vessels while in charge of the Harbour Masters was 11 as compared with 13 in the previous year, the percentage of accidents being 1·21. Although there has been a slight decrease in the total number, the percentage is even higher than last year. In five of the above cases the Harbour Master in charge was blamed; and in six cases damage was done. With reference to the remarks made in paragraph 9 of the Resolution recorded on the report for 1883-84, the Port Commissioners observe that "every accident, no matter how trifling, is now noted and recorded and reported to the Wreck and Casualty Chart Compiler. While this tends to increase the number of casualties shown in the list, it will be observed that the increased tonnage and length of the vessels piloted in the port make the duties of the Assistant Harbour Masters more onerous and increase the risk to the vessels. And although for 11 vessels out of 903 to be grounded or in collision may appear a considerable percentage, there is also to be noted that moving these vessels up or down the port or into and out of dock involved getting vessels under way and moving on 2,374 occasions. If these facts are taken into consideration in connection with the very strong tides to be contended with during some months of the year, and very slight damage sustained by vessels while in charge of the Harbour Master's Department, there is rather reason to infer that the officers bring ordinarily to their work the care and attention which are demanded by them." The Lieutenant-Governor admits that the burden of Harbour Master's duties has increased with the increased size and tonnage of vessels; but he observes that for the eight years 1875-76 to 1882-83, the average percentage of accidents was ·76, while in the last two years it has been 1·19 and 1·21 respectively. Sir Rivers Thompson considers that the difference is too great to be entirely accounted for by the explanation quoted above, and that some laxity in the Harbour Master's Department is indicated.

10. Five cases of fire were reported during the year, of which one occurred on board a ship and the rest on the banks of the river; but none were attended with any serious damage. The fire-engine Hooghly attended on every occasion.

11. The moorings were all examined, and those found defective have been replaced with new materials. Four additional moorings were laid during the year, making the total number 228. Of these, ten fixed and two swinging moorings have been reserved for Government, and nine fixed and five swinging for the Port Commissioners, leaving 158 fixed and 42 swinging for vessels trading to the port. The dredger was at work for 109 days at a net expenditure of Rs. 30,259. The average cost of each 1,000 cubic feet dredged was Rs. 30·25. The increase in the cost of dredging is due to an exceptionally large outlay on repairs, and to the reduction in the towing receipts earned by the Hopper barges. The outturn of dredging work also diminished, owing to the vessel being unfit for dredging work until the new sets of buckets, links and pins were received from England.

12. Two hundred and thirty-seven vessels were surveyed by the Engineer-Surveyor under Act V of 1862, and 150 vessels under Acts VIII of 1876 and VII of 1871. The total number of visits paid to these vessels was 969. Owing to pressure of work in the Engineer-Surveyor's Department, the establishment employed for the survey and licensing of cargo boats was amalgamated in the past year with that of the Engineer-Surveyor. But as the Boat Surveyor was not considered competent to undertake the survey of inland vessels at places to which railway communication has been extended, and as there was a considerable increase of work in the department, the appointment of an Assistant Surveyor was sanctioned. The following table shows the number of passenger and cargo boats surveyed and licensed during the year as compared with that of the previous year:—

Cargo boats	5,989	5,972
Passenger boats	1,876	2,103
Manjhis licensed	8,336	8,771

It has been decided that, subject to certain conditions as to the observance in Calcutta of the rules and regulations enforced in England, the certificates granted by the Government of Bengal to passenger steamers at Calcutta will be recognised in the United Kingdom, and effect has been given to the decision by an Order in Council of the 17th October 1884.

13. The Tramway of the Commissioners rendered material assistance to the Engineering Department in conveying goods from the transit sheds to the warehouses. The net receipts from these lines amounted to Rs. 39,538, against Rs 39,994 in the previous year. In consequence of the transfer of the Eastern Bengal Railway to the Government, the Manager of the Railway suggested the renewal of the agreement which existed between the Eastern Bengal Railway Company and the Port Commissioners for the working of through traffic over the lines. The Manager, however, objected to the terms of the agreement made with the Company. A new agreement has therefore been entered into, under which the Railway authorities will receive, book and deliver through goods at all stations on the tramway, the Commissioners contributing towards the cost of establishments, rent of buildings, &c., in the proportion which the tramway receipts from through traffic bear to the receipts of the State Railway from the traffic booked and delivered on the tramway lines.

14. The income on account of port approaches amounted to Rs. 4,81,486, against Rs. 3,71,805 in 1883-84. The collection of port dues has been discontinued from the 1st April 1884. A sum of Rs 10,893 was, however, realized from vessels which had entered the port before the end of March, but did not leave it till after the 1st of April. The expenditure on account of port approaches shows an increase of Rs. 1,16,886, which is due in a great measure to a sum of Rs. 80,000 having been provided for depreciation.

With the exception of the Saugor Roads, in which a considerable change took place when Stiffe Island was washed away, the channels between the Sandheads and the port have been steady throughout the year. A series of small detached lumps, however, formed on or near the Auckland Bar. These have been frequently examined and reported on, and several tracings have been published for the information of pilots. Besides several minor surveys, a careful survey of the bed of the river from a little below Diamond Harbour down to Saugor was executed. The survey vessels were all usefully employed during the year. The light-houses at False Point, Saugor and Cowcolly were inspected and found to be in good order. The new occult light at False Point was shown for the first time in September 1884, and has since been working satisfactorily.

15. The Floating Light Vessel Mermaid was destroyed by fire while on duty at the intermediate stations. The Committee of Enquiry failed to ascertain the origin of the fire, but were of opinion that, had the fire-hose been in an accessible place, the fire might possibly have been put out, and the vessel saved. They held the Commander of the vessel responsible for not keeping the hose connected and ready for use. The Commander, however, followed in this matter the routine laid down for his guidance, and the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Port Commissioners in thinking that he is not to blame for this.

16. The refuge houses were inspected, and some of them were found to be in need of repairs. The stores left last year in these houses have been stolen. Since the establishment of these places, they have been systematically plundered every year: and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the enquiries now being made may result in steps being taken to put a stop to these depredations.

17. The scheme for the construction of wet docks at Kidderpore having been approved by the Secretary of State, the Commissioners were authorised to commence preliminary operations, but were at the same time instructed to confine these operations to the acquisition and clearing of land, construction of the Strand tramway, and renewal and re-erection of the dockyard buildings. Considerable difficulties have arisen in regard to the provision of funds for the works. The Commissioners being unable to raise any loan until an Act was passed authorizing them to construct docks, and to raise necessary loans for the purpose, a sum of Rs. 15,00,000 was advanced by Government in order to enable the Commissioners to proceed with the acquisition of land, and to arrange for the supply of the necessary materials. The Act was passed in June last, and in the following month a loan of Rs. 75,00,000 was advertised by the Commissioners, but no tender was received. Recently the Lieutenant-Governor has received the copy of a despatch from the Secretary of State authorising the Government of India to borrow in India the money required for the construction of the Docks and to advance it to the Port Commissioners, the charge for interest being the actual rate of borrowing plus one per cent. for a sinking fund. The matter is still under the consideration of the Port Commissioners.

18. In consequence of a proposal made by the Trinity House to remove the Ridge station light nine or ten miles from the present position, the Port Officer and the Commissioner of Orissa considered it desirable to place a light at Point Palmyras. The Port Commissioners are, however, of opinion that the light-house which it is proposed to establish at Shortt's Island would be sufficient to warn vessels coming up the Bay, and that it is unnecessary to have an additional light at Point Palmyras. The Commissioners at the same time represented that, as the light-house is desirable in the interest of the local traffic of Balasore, the Port Fund should not be called upon to make any contribution towards the cost of its construction and maintenance. Ultimately, however, they have agreed to pay Rs. 14,078 for the construction of the light-house, on the understanding that this contribution would be final, and that the fact of their now contributing towards the initial cost should not hereafter be used as an argument for charging any portion of the cost of maintaining the light-house to the Port Fund.

19. The plan and estimate of the petroleum wharf and depôt at Budge-Budge have been approved, and the sanction of the Government of India has been accorded to the extension of the southern boundary of the Port of Calcutta to below Budge-Budge, so as to include the wharf and depôt within the limits of the port; but owing to want of funds it has hitherto been impossible to proceed with the project. But now the question connected with the financial position of the Port Commissioners having been definitely settled, the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the prosecution of the work will be carried out with as little delay as possible, as the necessity for its early completion is fully recognized.

20. The Port Commissioners have laboured during the year under grave financial difficulties, which the Lieutenant-Governor trusts have now been finally overcome. His acknowledgments are due to them for the earnest interest they have always shown in the discharge of their important duties, and especially for the energy and ability with which they have prosecuted the enquiry for the expansion of the improvements of the Port under the Kidderpore Dock scheme.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. WARE EDGAR,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

CALCUTTA, the 4th January 1886.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 1ST JANUARY 1886.

The meteorological conditions at the close of the previous week were typical of the north-east monsoon. The disturbed conditions which had previously obtained, and which had culminated in general and in most districts moderately heavy rain over the whole province had rapidly passed away, and with the setting in of a fairly strong northerly current after the general rainfall, temperature had fallen with great rapidity, so that at the close of the week temperature was generally below the normal by considerable amounts; pressure was high: the sky had cleared rapidly and was practically cloudless: over the whole province a steady northerly current was blowing, and there was every indication of settled weather. These conditions have continued to hold throughout the week, and beyond the usual slight oscillations of temperature, pressure, &c., which are of normal occurrence, there have been no meteorological changes to record. Weather has therefore been fine with no rain throughout the whole week over the whole province, except for a slight and unimportant shower at Buxa in the Darjeeling Hills.

As the result of the disturbed conditions which had obtained in the previous week, pressure had been below the normal over the greater part of the province, but with the setting in of the steady northerly current, and with the very rapid reduction of temperature, pressure rose with very considerable rapidity, and the mean pressure for the present week has been rather largely above the normal. For the previous week the defect had been about 0·02″, for the present week the excess above the normal has been more than 0·06″, so that there has been a rise of nearly a tenth of an inch during the week The distribution of the excess pressure has been on the whole very equal over the province, and in this respect there has again been a change, as in the previous weeks the variations were decidedly irregular.

Temperature, as stated previously, has been low throughout the week, though there have been as usual slight oscillations. The mean temperature for the whole week for the whole province has been about 2·5° below the normal for the period, but the greatest defects have been registered in Centra Nagpur, where the temperature has been 4·8° below the normal, and in Orissa and South-West Bengal, where the defect has been between 3° and 4°. In Behar, on the other hand, the defect has been only slight and is less than 1°. Again during the present week the defects have been larger in the case of the day or maximum temperatures than in the night or minimum temperatures. This is clearly shown in the table below, where the mean maximum and minimum temperatures for the week at eight selected stations are compared with the normal temperatures for the same period.

Names of Stations.	Maximum Day Temperature.			Minimum Night Temperature.
	Normal averages for week.	Actual averages for week.	Difference.	Normal averages for week.	Actual averages for week.	Difference.
Cuttack	83·1	78·2	−4·9	57·9	55·5	−2·4

Dacca	77·2	73·7	−3·5	54·6	55·6	+1·0

Purneah	76·1	72·2	−3·9	48·2	?	?
Hazaribagh	72·4	66·1	−6·3	49·5	46·3	−3·2

From this it will be seen that, while at these eight typical stations the mean maximum temperatures have been 4·7° in defect, the mean night or minimum temperatures have been only 1·2° in defect.

Rainfall has been entirely absent over the whole province throughout the week, except for a slight shower at Buxa in the Darjeeling Hills on the 30th instant. On the afternoon of the 1st of January also a telegram was received from Darjeeling stating that snow had commenced to fall in that station.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 1st of January 1886:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with he registers of former years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet ligher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of emperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·°3 lower; and, inally, the thermometer, which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's)ffice during 20 years and upwards, is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard hermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans, above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 1.)

NORTH-EAST COAST OF AFRICA.

THE Board of Trade has issued the following warning to vessels rounding Cape Guardafui from the Southward or Eastward:—

From the end of 1876 to July 1882, there were ten casualties near the Cape. They occurred chiefly during the period of the S.W. monsoon—April to September. In this season the weather is stormy, the currents are strong, and the land is generally obscured by a thick haze, which is thicker in the lower strata.

The similarity between the outlines of the headlands of Rás Jered Hafún, 12 miles South of Cape Guardafui, and that Cape, from which it is separated by a broad, sandy plain, is a fertile source of disaster. In hazy weather at night the steep fall of Jered Hafún is dimly seen, and when this bears S. of W., if Guardafui is not sighted, as is often the case, the navigator fancies he has rounded it already, and steers to the westward into the low Bay of Wadi Tohum. In such cases the lead, and the lead alone, until a light is established on or near Cape Guardafui, can ensure safety. The directions given in the Gulf of Aden Pilot, and the precautions to be observed, cannot be too earnestly recommended to seamen.

Port Officer of Calcutta.

SAVINGS BANKS.

Calcutta, the 4th January 1886.

No. 33.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce.

The Governor-General in Council has had for some time under consideration the expediency of continuing, in the same place and for the same purpose, the dual system of the District and the Post Office Savings Banks. His Excellency in Council has now decided that the District and the Post Office Savings Banks should be amalgamated, and that the Post Office organisation being more widely spread and more convenient for the public than the Treasury system, the District Savings Banks should be closed and their accounts transferred to the Post Office Savings Banks. The Government District Savings Banks will accordingly be closed, with effect from the 1st April 1886. Any balances in the District Savings Banks on the date of closing will be transferred to the Post Office Savings Banks. From the date of the receipt of the present orders no new accounts should be opened in any District Savings Bank. Any person wishing to open an account in a District Savings Bank should be directed to apply to a Post Office Savings Bank. Depositors having accounts in District Savings Banks can, in the interval which will elapse before those Banks are closed, apply for the transfer of their accounts to some Post Office Savings Bank under the rules which are now in force for such transfers. The Comptroller and Auditor General and the Director General of the Post Office are authorised to take measures calculated to encourage voluntary transfers of the above nature.

ORDERED, that the Resolution be communicated to the Comptroller and Auditor General and the Director General of the Post Office of India for information and for the issue of further necessary orders.

Ordered also, that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

11. (1) If the Collector has reason to believe that a statement delivered under section 10 is incorrect or incomplete, he may cause to be served on the principal officer of the company a notice requiring him, on or before a date to be therein mentioned, either to attend at the Collector's office and produce, or to cause to be there produced, for the inspection of the Collector such of the accounts of the company as refer to the year to which the statement relates and as are in his possession or power.

C.—Interest on Securities.

12. (1) The tax payable under Part III in respect of the interest on any of the securities mentioned in that Part shall, at the time, when and place where any of the interest is paid, be deducted therefrom by the person empowered to pay the interest, and be paid by that person within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

(2) In the case of a person for the first time becoming chargeable under Part IV within the year of assessment, or within the year next before that year, the assessment shall be made according to an average of his income, for such period as the Collector, under the circumstances, directs.

(3) In assessing under Part IV, in respect of income assessable under that Part, a person in the service of the Government, whose pay, by reason of its being less than one hundred rupees per mensem, is not chargeable under Part I, the Collector shall treat both the pay and the other income as chargeable under Part IV.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT having been found necessary to have recourse to legislation for the purpose of increasing the public revenues, it has been decided to extend the existing License Tax to offices, employments and professions, and, generally, to make liable to assessment all incomes derived from sources other than agriculture.

The existing License Tax Acts are repealed and a single Act for all India is substituted.

The rate of the tax has been slightly raised, and the area of its incidence has been, as above stated, extended; but the principles of the License Tax are closely followed in the case of annual incomes below Rs. 2,000, and the procedure and machinery for assessment and collection are maintained in the case of all incomes so far as is consistent with the altered conditions of the tax.

STATEMENT OF THE COURSE OF BUSINESS.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said:—I have thought it desirable to take the first occasion of our meeting in the Legislative Council of Bengal to place before you in very brief outline, and without attempting to enter into any details, the measures which we shall have to consider during the next three or four months of the present session. There are certain Bills standing over from the last session, and I think from previous sessions, to which I may in the first instance allude.

I find that there is a Bill to provide a supply of pure water to the suburbs of Calcutta, which was introduced into this Council about two years ago, and which has been the subject of frequent conferences between members of the Calcutta Corporation and members of the Suburban Corporation, and which is still pending on our file. It will be sufficient to say in regard to this Bill that in view of the larger measure of municipal legislation, to which I shall presently advert, as about to come under our consideration, this Bill, which refers to the supply of pure water to the suburbs, may, I think, have to be abandoned.

Then there is a Bill to provide for the registration of permanent tenures. It will be in the recollection of the Council that that measure was brought forward last year by my hon. friend Mr. Reynolds, and after discussion, both, I think, at its introduction and on its reference to a Select Committee, has remained over to the present session. The reason for that was that the subject was one which was closely connected with the Bengal Tenancy Bill then before the supreme Legislature, and it was necessary to wait till that measure was passed; and further, the registration of Tenures Bill having attracted considerable attention, it was thought better, before we proceeded to legislate finally on the subject, to collect the opinions of the local authorities upon it. These opinions have been received by us during the last six or seven months, and will be placed in the hands of the Select Committee which is dealing with the Bill, and I have no doubt that on an early date, or at any rate before the session closes, it will devolve upon us to consider the report of the Select Committee, and to decide finally upon the provisions of that measure.

A larger Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to canungoes and putwaries in Bengal was most exhaustively discussed by my hon'ble friend Mr. MacDonnell at the last session of the Council. That was also proceeded with to the length of being referred to a Select Committee, but further action in the matter has been stayed at the request of the Government of India, who desired that the whole of the papers connected with that legislation should be submitted with a view to their being sent home, at the wish of the Secretary of State, for his consideration, and we are now waiting the final orders of those high authorities upon the subject. I may be allowed to observe in passing that the Bill is connected mainly with the work of survey and record of rights to be undertaken under the new Tenancy Act, and is supplementary to that law. We have already commenced under the authority of that Act the survey of one of the largest districts in Behar (Mozufferpore), and I am glad to be able to say that, so far as that measure has gone, it has been begun successfully and without any friction, and gives promise to be eventually prosecuted to a successful issue. But whatever may happen with regard to the survey and record of rights in that district, it will be apparent to every one that, unless we have some system of maintaining the results of the work done, unless we have an effective village agency to maintain that record from day to day and from month to month, the expense and trouble and risk incurred in carrying out the survey and record of rights will very soon be absolutely lost. What we wish to do is to establish a system of putwaries and canungoes to maintain the record of rights when we have carried out the surveys. It is a system which prevails, I believe, in every province in India, except Bengal. It is a system which, if a proper detailed survey and record of rights in a district is a desirable thing, is absolutely necessary. Therefore, I most sincerely hope that the sanction and approval of the Secretary of State and of the Government of India will be given to us to proceed with that legislation. I may add that there is no intention on the part of the Government to put the Bill, when it is passed, into operation in any district where a survey or record of rights has not been effected. That work is now being prosecuted tentatively in one district, and if it succeeds in Mozufferpore, I have no doubt it will be extended to other districts eventually, until we have a survey and record of rights throughout the whole province. But until a survey and record of rights is made, there is no intention of establishing these canungoes and putwaries.

So far as regards the pending measures. The new measures which it is intended to bring before you for consideration are, in the first place, two small Bills, one of which is connected with the proposed amendment of Bengal Act V of 1880 (an Act relating to vaccination). It is a very small measure, comprised in a very few sections, and will be introduced with the approbation of the Municipal Commissioners of this city and their Chairman, and it is intended to give fuller powers to public vaccinators, the Superintendent of Vaccination, and the Health Officer, to enable them to carry out the system of vaccination in this city. One difficulty has always arisen in connexion with the shipping in the port. Ships come and go at very short intervals now, and it has been very often found that they bring disease, and to prevent the spread of contagion the hands of the Health Officer will be strengthened to enable him to carry out vaccination in the ships visiting the port.

Another small Bill relates to the amendment of the Bengal Act IV of 1866, which is intended to give the Commissioner of Police (at whose instance the Bill has been introduced) greater powers for the arrest of persons committing nuisances and offences in the city. At the next meeting of the Council leave will be asked to introduce both these measures.

I now come to a larger proposal in connection with the amendment of Bengal Act VI of 1870, which was an Act passed in that year for the improvement of the village police throughout the province of Bengal. I had the honour myself, as a member of the Council under Sir William Grey's administration, of having charge of that Bill. It was intended to remedy the defects which prevailed very extensively throughout this province as regards the prompt and regular payment of the salaries of the village chowkidars. The practice had formerly been to secure their payment through the zemindar, and it was such an absolute failure and involved so much complaint, correspondence, and reference from the Magistrate to the Government, and from the Government to the zemindar to do what was their duty in the payment of these officers, and abuses so generally prevailed in consequence of the village police being sometimes more than a year, sometimes eighteen months, absolutely without pay, that Sir William Gray's government thought it necessary to put the working of that institution on a different basis. A complete change was therefore made in the system, and the principle which was adopted was to relieve the zemindars of the duty and to establish a body of village punchayets, to whom was delegated the right to nominate the chowkidars in their respective villages; to be responsible for the proper discharge of their duties; and to realize under the plan proposed in the Act the dues leviable from the different members of the village for the payment of the salaries due to the policeman. These are very small sums, as you all know—sometimes only Rs. 3 a month, and, I think, rarely exceeding Rs. 5—and the fees which are leviable from the different members of each village community for this amount were of course very small indeed. It was thought that the establishment of these village punchayets, selected generally from amongst the residents of the village, would give that kind of a representative body to the village which would very easily and regularly, if they chose to apply themselves to the duty, realize the small cess required from each member of the village for the payment of these public officers. Speaking upon that occasion I said:—

"Rules have been made as simple as could be framed for the appointment of village committees as an agency to supervise the duties of the chowkidars, and provision has been made for realizing regularly and paying regularly the wages of the chowkidars. If these rules can be adequately enforced, as, with efficient administration, they may be enforced, with the removal of the main evil which has affected the usefulness of the institution, there need be no fear that better men will not be found for village chowkidars, or that in the discharge of their duties they will not be more efficient and honest than under the present system."

The Bill was passed upon those lines, and it was introduced at once in certain districts of the country. I remember that one of the earliest reports from Rajshahye gave promise of success, and the efficient administration of the Act in that district was suggested to other Magistrates for their imitation. I am sorry, however, to find that after several years of experiment the idea of leaving the law to work itself without any direct pressure from the Magistrates or their subordinates has not been realised. Gradually we began to find out several things,—that the punchayets did not like the duty; that they specially disliked the odium of having to assess or levy the tax; and that still complaints existed that the chowkidars were not in regular receipt of their monthly salaries. It was therefore at the instance of that very able officer Mr. James Munro, then Inspector-General of Police, that a Committee was appointed about three years ago, of which he was President, and two other civil officers were members of the Committee, to inquire into the operation of Act VI of 1870, and a very able and full report was submitted by them which went into the whole question and brought out the defects in the Act. If I read to you a summary of their conclusions, I think it will be sufficient to place before you what was actually found to be the state of things after the law had been in force for about ten years. They said:—

"(a) That the punchayets have signally failed voluntarily to accomplish the chief object with which they were constituted under Act VI of 1870, viz. the regular payment of the salaries of village watchmen.

(b) That notwithstanding the apathy of punchayets, above 90 per cent. of chowkidars now receive their salaries with tolerable regularity once a quarter."

That was a great improvement upon the former practice; whereas formerly the chowkidars were often in arrears of pay for more than a year, the working of the Act, even with all its defects, had reduced the period of arrears very considerably, and the chowkidars are now generally in arrears for only about three months:—

"(c) That such regularity of payment has been attained by constant supervision, amounting to harassment, which has been exercised towards the punchayets, and which was not contemplated as necessary or advisable when punchayets were constituted under the Act.

(d) That in the absence of such harassing supervision, the punchayets would have continued to neglect their duties with regard to the regular payments of chowkidars' wages, as they did before the application of such supervision.

(e) That the appointment of punchayets, instead of being desired by members of village communities, is intensely disliked by them; 1st, as being compulsory; 2nd, as being unremunerative; 3rd, as being undignified; 4th, as exposing the holders of the appointment to the odium of their fellow-villagers; 5th, as causing to the punchayets the risk of attachment and sale of their property in the event of collection of rates being in arrear; 6th, as subjecting punchayets to distasteful supervision at the hands of magisterial and police-officers, especially the latter; 7th, as involving a regularity in the discharge of duty which is foreign to native custom and practice.

(f) That the selection of punchayets has not been conducted with such care as was required by the Act; that police nominations have been too extensively had recourse to.

(g) That even in cases in which special care has been bestowed on the selection of punchayets, the practical results have been disappointing.

(h) That in a very great number of cases the assessments made require revision, having been made with unfairness, in the interests of the higher, and without consideration for the poorer, classes.

(i) That the accounts produced are almost universally fictitious.

(j) That it is doubtful whether the chowkidars receive the full amount of their wages owing to the fraudulent action of punchayets in other respects.

(k) That the influence of the punchayets for good or bad in securing better reporting of crime cannot be ascertained without full and lengthened enquiry."

I do not think that any Government, on the receipt of a report conducted by a Commission of such power as that to which this inquiry was committed, could fail to see that the law of 1870 required amendment. Before, however, having recourse to legislation, we thought it right to let the Commissioners of divisions see what the Commission had suggested, and a body of reports has been received, which will be placed before the Council at the proper time, regarding the opinions of local officers on the recommendations made by Mr. Munro's Committee. My hon'ble friend Mr. Garrett will, next Saturday, ask leave to introduce a Bill for the purpose of amending Act VI of 1870. And here I may just briefly intimate the outline of the Bill which it is proposed to submit for your consideration. We do not desire to interfere with the principle of punchayets. We desire to leave in their hands still the nomination of the chowkidars, and we desire to maintain with the punchayets the responsibility of supervising the performance of the duties by village watchmen. But the main defect of the Act, as connected with the realizing of the cess for paying the chowkidars—this duty which has hitherto been so distasteful to the village punchayet—we propose to take away from them. If the report of the Committee is correct, that duty is one which they will very thankfully surrender. They regard it as an odious function, bringing them into unpleasant contact with their fellow-villagers, and they will be glad to see it placed in other hands. We propose to give the punchayet the assistance of a bukshi or tehsildar, whose duty it will be, to some extent under the supervision of the punchayet, to assess and levy the cess; and then as regards the payment of chowkidars, it is proposed that it should be made monthly, or, if necessary, at longer intervals, at the thana, under the superintendence of the regular police of the district. In this way we hope to secure what is very essential,—the regular payment of the village watchmen. It is certain that in a country like India, when crime is committed, we can trust very little to voluntary agency to assist in its detection and punishment. We have often indeed to face opposition on the part of the villagers in the investigation of crime. It is not so in any other country. Here, for some cause or other, they especially dislike the idea of a policeman visiting their village and of themselves being subject to the harassment of a public enquiry, and being taken off to long distances to give evidence. All these things combine to prevent the people from that prompt co-operation which is so essential to the regular police in the discovery of crime. Therefore, if the village chowkidar is not properly and regularly paid, he will himself fall into habits of neglecting rather than of fulfilling his duties. The efficiency of the rural constabulary depends, as we all know very well, upon the assurance of their being fully paid for their work, and to this point the proposals of the new Bill will be specially directed.

I have to speak to you also upon a measure on which I can only say at present that I hope before the session closes a Bill may be submitted for your consideration. It is one of very great importance to this city, and I have no doubt it will attract considerable attention and discussion outside these walls. It is a Bill for the entire repeal probably of Act IV of 1876, under which the present Municipal Corporation exists, and the enactment of a new law. As you are well aware, the subject of municipal administration in Calcutta has been one which has been long and anxiously under consideration of this Government, and I am sorry to think that there have been differences of opinion between the members of the Corporation and myself upon a great many points. But the final conclusion of a long controversy, I think, brings us to the fact that for the future we shall understand our relative positions better, and that we shall especially understand this—that whereas in no other country can municipal administration be left entirely independent without some kind of external control, much the less in Calcutta can absolute independence be admitted. So long as a Municipal Corporation does its duty, you may be sure there can be no intention or desire on the part of any Government to interfere with them. In Calcutta, where, admitting fully and cordially that a great deal has been accomplished by the Municipal Commissioners within the last ten years, it is admitted by all that a vast deal yet in the way of sanitary reform remains to be done. I am not singular in that opinion. The Government of India has endorsed that view; and it goes much further. We have conferences in Europe of men interested in sanitary science, who tell us very plainly that in the matter of cholera and its dissemination Calcutta is one of the seats of the origin of that disease, and that not only for the advantage of the city itself, but of other people and of other countries, the promptest measures for the thorough sanitation of Calcutta are absolutely necessary. Therefore the subject is a very wide one, and the only anxiety on the part of the Government has been that the Municipal Corporation should realize its duties, not merely as a parish vestry, but as having very large responsibilities and very large duties, and should act up to them. Beyond all this, however, in the course of the discussion it became apparent that whatever might be the merits of the Corporation or its demerits—and I recognize fully that its merits are exceedingly great—there are outside of Calcutta, and separated from it only by a public road, large tracts of densely-populated places which themselves are in a ten-fold worse condition than the worst parts of Calcutta. However much you may reform Calcutta in its sanitary aspects, if you allow these plague spots to remain in the suburbs, no real good can be accomplished; and that raises the question of the advisability of amalgamating the suburbs of Calcutta with the central Corporation of Calcutta itself. As you are aware, an able committee, of which Mr. Reynolds was the President and Mr. Paul, the Magistrate of the Suburbs, Mr. H. L. Harrison the Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation, Baboo Kally Nath Mitter and others were members, has been engaged for the last three or four months in discussing the question of the feasibility of amalgamating the suburbs with Calcutta in one municipal administration. Their report, which, curiously, is not dated, only reached my hands about a week ago, and I took the earliest opportunity of placing it before the public. I can only therefore at this present moment say that we are, as an executive Government, considering the details of the proposals which have been submitted by Mr. Reynolds' committee. But speaking for myself, I quite accept the necessity of the amalgamation which they recommend. But when you come to note that their recommendations embrace considerations connected with the area to be included in this amalgamated Corporation, the boundaries of the new municipality, and the very difficult problem of finance—for I see they put forward the very grave consideration that, if the amalgamation is to be effective, the Government must contribute something like six lakhs per annum to enable them to carry it out successfully—you will admit that there is no light task before us. Apart from and beyond all this is involved the decision as to the new constitution of the Calcutta Corporation, and in various other ways the whole system of municipal administration in the capital is to be revised. This is the larger aspect which such a Bill would contemplate. But again, at the instance of the Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation, it has been brought to my notice that the law of 1876, which is imperfect in its drafting, has proved unworkable in a great many directions, and that the amendment of a great many of its sections is necessary. All these are points which require mature consideration, and all of these summed up seem to me to indicate that the present law will have to be repealed and an entirely new law prepared. Under all these circumstances, I can only make this promise, which is in accord with the original intention of Government, that considering the very great importance of the measure to Calcutta, and the many interests that are involved in this legislation, no such Bill will be passed in the present session. It is hoped, however, that before the close of this session—perhaps some time in March—we may be able, with the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, to place before you for discussion a carefully prepared Bill. That will enable us to give publicity, and to secure what is always very desirable, the opinion of the outside public on all its principles and details, and I have no doubt that when those opinions have been collected, we shall be in a position at the end of this year to proceed with the measure, which I hope will be one of very beneficial effect in the future administration of this city.

The last Bill, to which I need cursorily refer, is one arising out of the desire to establish a Port Trust in the port of Chittagong. The subject has only recently come before us in communication with the Commissioner of that division, and it is one which has now been found practicable from the existence of a rising commerce and trade of that port. It will enable us to make a very great improvement in that port, the future enlargement and development of which I think may be accepted as assured, especially when viewed in connection with the not distant prospect of the extension of railways in that part of the country. An early opportunity will be taken of placing a Bill before you to carry out that object.

I thank you, gentlemen, for the very patient attention you have given to my remarks. I hope next week to lay before you one or two of the measures to which I have referred for your practical consideration.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 9th instant.

LOCATION OF THE HEAD-QUARTERS OF THE BURDWAN DIVISION IN THE TOWN OF BURDWAN.

JURISDICTION.

Dated Calcutta, the 9th January 1886.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A memorial, dated 15th August last, from the inhabitants of the districts of Midnapore and Hooghly, objecting to the recent transfer of the head-quarters of the Burdwan Division from Chinsurah to Burdwan, and praying that, for the reasons therein set forth, the Lieutenant-Governor will be pleased to retransfer the head-quarters of the Division to Howrah or to Hooghly.

A memorial, dated the 1st December 1885, from the residents of the towns of Hooghly and Chinsurah, praying that the head-quarters of the Burdwan Division may again be located at Hooghly.

A memorial without date, from the inhabitants of the district of Midnapore, praying that the head-quarters of the Burdwan Division may be retransferred either to Howrah or Hooghly.

A memorial from the districts of Burdwan, Bankoorah, and Beerbhoom, dated the 8th December 1885, praying that, for the reasons stated, the existing arrangements be not interfered with, and that Burdwan may continue to be the head-quarters of the division.

THE receipt of the above memorials has rendered it necessary that the Lieutenant-Governor should decide between the rival claims of the towns of Hooghly and Burdwan to be the head-quarters of the Burdwan Division. The selection of Howrah for this purpose, as proposed in the first of the three memorials, is impossible in face of the necessity which would arise of a large expenditure of money for providing the requisite office accommodation. The first memorial, which has been signed by many persons of great influence and social position, lays stress upon the inaccessibility of Burdwan from the more remote portions of the Midnapore and Hooghly districts, and upon the inconvenience and expense to which the residents of these districts are put by having to proceed to Burdwan when it is necessary for them to attend the Commissioner's Court or to transact business in his office. The facilities of communication by rail and steamer with all parts of the division, which Hooghly affords, are also referred to; while the growing importance of Midnapore as a district is cited as an additional reason for the head-quarters of the division being again located at Chinsurah, some two miles from the town of Hooghly, where it is represented that ample house accommodation is available. The second memorial advocates the same view.

The third memorial urges the location of the Commissioner's Office at Howrah on the grounds of the importance of that town and its accessibility from all parts of the division, and especially from the important district of Midnapore.

The memorial last received has also a numerous list of signatories. Its main arguments in support of the existing arrangement are the central situation and importance of the town of Burdwan; the fact that for years it was the head-quarters of the division; that these were only removed because at that time the prevalence of the Burdwan fever interfered with the transaction of business; and lastly, that the presence of the Commissioner at Burdwan enables him to exercise a closer supervision of the districts of Beerbhoom and Bankoora in times of famine and distress than he could from Hooghly or Howrah. Stress, too, is laid on the comparative backwardness of these districts, the inability of the inhabitants, who are generally poor and uneducated, to represent their own grievances, and the necessity which consequently exists for the head of the division to be in more direct communication with them than with those districts in which, from the growth of public opinion, the people are better able to take care of themselves. It is further represented that the argument against Burdwan, on the ground of its inaccessibility, is in reality one of little weight, because the journey by rail between Hooghly and Burdwan occupies less than two hours and costs only nine annas. Legal assistance is as easily procurable at the one place as at the other, and no necessity exists for suitors to bring their pleaders and law-agents from elsewhere. Lastly, the fact of the Burdwan Raj estates being under the Court of Wards is referred to as a strong reason for not moving the head-quarters of the division from that station.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor has very carefully considered all that has been urged by the different memorialists in favour of their respective contentions. He has also consulted the Commissioner of the Division, and the conclusion at which he has arrived is that the existing arrangements ought not to be disturbed. On the mere question of convenience, while Hooghly or Chinsurah would no doubt be preferred by the residents of the Hooghly or Howrah districts, it is equally certain that, for the inhabitants of Burdwan, Beerbhoom and Bankoora, with the large and important sub-division of Raneegunge, the present arrangement is the best. There remain to be considered the circumstances of the district of Midnapore; and for the inhabitants of this part of the division the advantages of the rival towns seem pretty equally balanced. To go to Burdwan they have undoubtedly a somewhat longer railway journey to perform, but against this must be set the fact that Chinsurah, where the Commissioner's office must necessarily be, is fully two miles distant from the Railway station, and that, as far as expense goes, the cost of the longer railway journey in the one case is probably less than the carriage hire in the other. This perhaps is a matter of no very great consequence, for Sir Rivers Thompson is informed that but few persons personally attend the Commissioner's Court. Appeals for the most part are sent by post by the Collector of the district in which they are filed, and pleaders are retained and instructed without it being necessary for their clients to be present at all. The Lieutenant-Governor is moreover disposed to attach some importance to the argument based on the accessibility of Burdwan from the less advanced districts of the division. During the present year, both Beerbhoom and Bankoora have been a source of anxiety to the Government on account of the distress that has prevailed in them. Both have had to be frequently visited by the Commissioner, and it has undoubtedly been a great advantage during that period that his head-quarters should have been where they are. Lastly, on the ground of accommodation, the Lieutenant-Governor is not aware of what may have been done lately at Chinsurah in this respect. But when the removal of the divisional head-quarters was decided on, there certainly was not at that place sufficient house room. At Burdwan the requisite accommodation has been provided, and the records of the Commissioner's office have been removed to it, and been finally arranged. The Lieutenant-Governor cannot therefore hold out any prospect of a change in arrangements which have been definitely settled.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the above Resolution be forwarded for the information of the memorialists, and to the Commissioner of Burdwan for his information.

RESOLUTION.—One of the chief objections taken to the salt duties is that, owing to the resulting high prices, cattle are stinted in their supply of salt, while manufacturers and agriculturists are required to pay duty on salt employed in industry and agriculture. The attention of the Government of India has been given to the matter for some years in the hope that an unobjectionable method of freeing from duty salt required for the purposes above indicated might sooner or later be discovered.

No satisfactory way of effecting this object and at the same time of protecting the State from risk of fraud has as yet been found. The issue of duty-free salt on a simple guarantee that it will be used for certain purposes and for no others is, in the absence of special safeguards, out of the question, while the provision of such safeguards would entail the entertainment of establishments at inordinate expense, or the adoption of measures harassing to the section of the public concerned. The only plan which would fully meet the requirements of the case would be the denaturalisation of salt so as to render it unfit for human consumption, whilst it remained fit for use by cattle and as manure, or for industrial purposes, the salt not being easily restorable to an edible condition by any of the methods which could in ordinary circumstances be employed in India. If salt were thus prepared, it might be freely issued at little over cost price without danger to the revenue. So far, however, all attempts made to discover such a process have proved more or less unsatisfactory in their results.

2. The first experiment was made in 1876 by Mr. Wood, then Chemical Examiner to the Government of Bengal, consequent on an application from Messrs. Burn & Co., of Calcutta, for the remission of duty on salt used by them in the manufacture of glazed stoneware pipes and similar articles. Mr. Wood reported that he was unable to find out a process which fully complied with the conditions laid down, namely, the discovery of an inexpensive method whereby salt may be rendered unfit for human consumption and can be again rendered edible only by a process the cost of which would equal or exceed the duty levied on it. But he suggested an alternative method, namely, the admixture of salt with coal tar, the tarred salt being issued to manufacturers of glazed stoneware free of duty, upon a personal guarantee for its use exclusively in manufacture. This method was adopted and is still practised, the salt being issued subject to certain special rules framed by the Government of Bengal. The arrangement works satisfactorily on the limited scale on which it has been tried, but constant supervision is required, and tarred salt cannot be used except in pottery manufacture.

3. In 1877 Dr. H. Warth was directed to make experiments after the German method with some of the refuse salt of the Punjab mines. A mixture of salt with colocynth (Citrullus colocynthis), and another with lignite, oil-cake, and cotton seed were tried, but the result in both cases was unsatisfactory, pure salt being easily recovered from the mixtures, and the experiments were discontinued. On application to the Secretary of State for information showing precisely the process of denaturalisation employed in Germany it appeared that salt was issued for agricultural purposes in two forms, (1) a coarse powder consisting of a mixture of oxide of iron and vermouth powder (Artemisia absinthium), and (2) blocks for beasts to lick, the salt being mixed with oxide of iron and charcoal powder. Salt for manure was mixed with charcoal dust, ashes, lamp-black, or ordinary soot, in different proportions. These mixtures, though effective in Germany, would not be so in this country where the salt duty is much heavier, and cheaper means of restoring the salt exist.

4. In 1879 the Government of Madras forwarded an application from Mr. Barter for permission to use duty-free salt in the manufacture of manure. The Commissioner of Salt Revenue, Madras, referred to the various processes of medicating salt used in France, and recommended compliance with Mr. Barter's application, provided the salt was first mixed with poudrette in accordance with the French method. The Board supported the recommendation of the Salt Commissioner, but the Government of India considered that the issue of a mixture of the kind to the people of this country was obviously objectionable as leading to serious misapprehension of motives. The proposal was therefore negatived.

5. The European methods of medicating salt having been found unsuitable, and the experiments made in Bengal and the Punjab having proved unsuccessful, the Government of India, in its Resolution of the 22nd August 1883, cited in the preamble, invited Local Governments and private individuals to make careful and systematic experiments for the discovery of a satisfactory process. Various attempts have been made in compliance with these instructions, but none of them can be considered completely satisfactory. The following is a brief summary of the suggestions received, and of the causes which render them ineffectual.

(1) Lieutenant J. F. Pogson, Dehra Dun.—A mixture of salt with slaked lime or chunam, carbonate of potash, powdered charcoal, rice-flour, and water. Experiment showed that the preparation was useless, pure salt being recovered from the mixture by solution in water and subsequent evaporation. A sample of cattle salt prepared by Lieutenant Pogson, of which he declined to name the ingredients, was tested by the Chemical Examiner, Punjab, and also found useless.

(2) Captain Davies, Barrack Master, Umballa—Suggested a mixture of salt with green succulent grass in the proportion of 40 or more parts of the latter to 1 of the former. Edible salt can be easily recovered from the mixture.

(3) Mr. C. J. Simons, Mahmarra Tea Estate, Assam.—A mixture of edible salt with sulphate of soda (khári nimak) in the proportion of 4 to 1, and of Sulphur vivum, black salt, and mustard oil-cake in small proportions. The mixture was examined by the Chemical Examiner, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, who reported that edible salt could be recovered from it by an easy process.

(4) Dr. Warth.—A mixture of salt with gur, bran, oil-cake, and grass. Experiments made by the Superintendent, Experimental Farm, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, failed, edible salt being easily recoverable from the mixture.

(5) Surgeon-Major J. B. Gaffney, Civil Surgeon, Seoni, Central Provinces.—A mixture of salt with "mahwa" refuse from distilleries. Experiments made in accordance with this suggestion by the Assistant Commissioner of the Sambhar Lake Division failed, salt being separated from the mixture by the simple process of recrystallisation.

(6) Mr. H. Murray, of Lahore.—Mr. Murray suggested four alternative methods of preparing cattle fodder—(1) a mixture of hay, wheat, bran, grass, fodder, and gram with caramel, molasses (mixed with green fodder juice), and salt; (2) a mixture of bran, salt, and caramel; (3) a mixture of hay, bran, and various descriptions of fodder with cotton, mustard seed, caramel, molasses, and salt; (4) a mixture of wheatmeal, gram, caramel, oil-cake, and salt. Every facility was afforded to Mr. Murray at the Mayo Salt mines, and salt supplied to him free of duty. He made a small quantity only of fodder by way of experiment, but owing to the cost of conveyance by rail of an article so bulky as this preparation it was found impossible to place the fodder in the market at a price which would be remunerative and attract purchasers. The experiments have been abandoned.

(7) Mr. R. Romanis, D.Sc., Chemical Examiner, British Burma.—A mixture of salt with sulphide of antimony, sulphur, and charcoal, or lime freshly slaked. This method fulfils the conditions laid down by the Government of India, but competent authorities, who were consulted as to its efficacy, report that fatal results may follow from continued consumption of a mixture which contains antimony, a cumulative poison.

6. Various experiments were made by district medical officers in Bengal, but none proved successful, the difficulty being to prevent the easy restoration of pure salt from the mixture. The Chemical Examiner to the Government of Bengal is of opinion that a solution of the problem cannot be expected under the conditions laid down, which in their entirety are impracticable. This view is concurred in by the Chemical Examiner to the Government of the Punjab, and in Madras and Bombay it has been held that the problem is insoluble.

7. As already stated in the Resolution of 22nd August 1883, the Government of India still hopes that a process may be discovered which, if not completely satisfying all the conditions hitherto prescribed, may yet be sufficient for practical purposes. In this view, the Governor General in Council is prepared to grant a reward not exceeding R5,000 to the inventor or discoverer of a process which will satisfy the main conditions, namely, (a) that the cost of the process must be moderate, not exceeding about 4 annas a maund, and (b) the preparation must be such that edible salt cannot be easily extracted from it by any of the ordinary processes in use amongst native salt-workers. If several good processes are suggested, the highest reward will be given to the inventor of the process which may appear to Government to be the most satisfactory in all respects, and a smaller proportionate reward will be granted for the next best process.

8. The details of the attempts hitherto made to discover a suitable method of denaturalisation have been printed in the form of a pamphlet, copy of which may be obtained on application by persons who desire to make experiments.

ORDERED—That the foregoing Resolution be communicated to the several Local Governments and Administrations, with a request that publicity may be given to the offer made by the Government of India.

Also that copies be forwarded to the Commissioner of Northern India Salt Revenue, and to the Revenue and Agricultural Department for information.

Also that it be published in the Gazette of India.

OBSERVATIONS.—The subject of the improvement of the staff entertained in each Province to supervise the village records was brought to the notice of all Local Governments and Administrations in the Resolution cited in the preamble, which was recorded on the 14th March 1883. The design of that Resolution was thus explained:—

"The object of the present Resolution is to commend to Local Governments and Administrations the desirability of improving, to the utmost extent, the quality of the staff to which the main work of supervision must be entrusted. It is impossible to throw the bulk of this work upon the higher administrative officials. In order to reduce to a minimum the amount of personal testing which must be undertaken by officers of superior position, it is necessary that they should have under them as supervisors of the staff of village accountants men whose competence is fully established and whose honesty can ordinarily be trusted. To the attainment of these objects five conditions appear to be essential:—

"1st—The good character and respectability of the candidates.
"2nd—Qualification for their duties.
"3rd—Adequate pay.
"4th—Promotion to higher appointments.
"5th—Strict punishment for neglect of duty."

2. The Governor-General in Council has learnt with satisfaction from the replies which have been received from Local Governments and Administrations that arrangements have now been made in all temporarily-settled Provinces for the careful selection of candidates with special reference to their fitness for the duties to be performed by them, and for their adequate remuneration. The question of facilitating the promotion of a certain number of deserving officials to higher posts has been taken up in a few Provinces only, because, among other reasons, the arrangements made for their appointment and pay are in most cases of too recent a nature to admit of a practical consideration of the subject. His Excellency in Council is, however, glad to learn that in the Presidency of Madras the post of Revenue Inspectors is now to be included in the schedule of appointments, service in which is held to qualify for a Tahsildarship; that in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the Board of Revenue has undertaken to see that the claims of Kanungos to promotion are borne in mind; and that in the Punjab the Government have in accordance with the wishes of the Government of India issued instructions which will tend greatly to increase the number of Assistant Tahsildars required to fill Kanungoships or similar appointments in the Settlement Department. The circulars* issued with the approval of the Punjab Government are appended to this Resolution for general information.

* Nos. 11 and 12, dated the 16th February 1885.

In conclusion His Excellency in Council trusts that the importance of the subject will continue to be kept in view, and that as the organization of the staff becomes more complete, further steps may be taken towards making the officials responsible for the supervision of the revenue record an integral part of the revenue establishment.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the above Resolution be printed in the Supplement of the Gazette of India and be forwarded to the Local Governments and Administrations noted on the margin for information and for publication in the local Gazette; also, that a copy be forwarded to the Foreign Department for communication to the Resident at Hyderabad and the Chief Commissioner of Ajmere-Merwara.

True extract,

E. C. BUCK,

Secretary to the Government of India.

Circular No. 11, dated Lahore, the 6th February 1885.

From—R. G. THOMPSON, ESQ., Offg. Senior Secy. to Financial Commissioner, Punjab.

To—All Revenue Officers.

Patwaris-Kanungos.

Attention drawn to Patwárí and Kánúngo Rules.

IN issuing, with the sanction of Government, the accompanying Patwárí and Kánúngo Rules, the Financial Commissioner desires to call the attention of Deputy Commissioners to the following remarks.

2. The object of the rules is to facilitate and secure—

(i) real efficiency among the Patwárís and Kánúngos;
(ii) improved field to field inspection, and record of the results of each harvest;
(iii) the continuous record in convenient tables of the total results of each harvest and each year's husbandry; these tables being kept first by villages, secondly by assessment circles, and thirdly by tahsils;
(iv) the punctual record and attestation of all mutations of rights and their prompt incorporation into the Jamabandi;
(v) the cessation of the present practice, under which in numerous cases mutation orders are passed in the absence of the parties, or after calling them away from their villages to the tahsil office;
(vi) the release of the Tahsildárs and Náib-Tahsildárs from a large amount of revenue case work, which under the procedure hitherto prescribed for such work, ties them to their tahsil offices, and overburdens their small office establishment with clerical duties;
(vii) and as a consequence, the systematic visiting of each village, either by the Tahsildár or Náib-Tahsildár.

3. The rules as now issued have been simplified as compared with the Draft Rules originally circulated for opinion. They have also been carefully translated under Lieutenant-Colonel Wace's personal supervision. They are to be taken as superseding the Patwárís Manual hitherto in use, and they will have the relation to the rules under the Land Revenue Act, which is explained in paragraphs 1 and 2 of Punjab Government letter No. 215, dated 26th September last, of which a copy is hereto appended.

4. To secure adequate observance of these rules will be a work of some time and labour in every district; and especially it is not intended that where fluctuating assessments are in force, the forms of papers at present in use for record and assessment should be altered too hurriedly, or without reference to the Commissioner of the division. Both in respect of their application to such systems and as regards the general introduction of the rules, the Financial Commissioner will rely on Commissioners and Deputy Commissioners acting with such expedition as is convenient and suitable.

5. In every tahsíl measures should be organised under the immediate supervision of the Tahsíldár for the instruction of Kánúngos and Pátwarís in the new rules. No special teacher will be required. The instructor should be the more experienced and intelligent of the Kánúngos, assisted by selected Patwárís. District officers are further requested to take measures for securing a careful and intelligent study of the rules by Tahsíldárs and Náib-Tahsíldárs. For, if the chief officials of each tahsil do not themselves thoroughly learn the new system, it is not likely that it will be completely carried out by the Kánúngos and Patwárís.

6. If in any district the assessment circles on which the current assessment was framed are considered unnecessarily numerous for the purposes of Rules 118 and 126, the Deputy Commissioner may, with the Commissioner's sanction, throw two or more circles into one.

7. The rules do not give a complete detail of a Kanúngo's duties; see paragraphs 111, 113 and 126. Commissioners are therefore requested to report six months hence what duties should be required of district, field and office Kanúngos, in addition to those stated in the rules.

8. On the subject of the organization of the Pátwarí and Kánúngo establishments (Rules 3 and 94), separate circulars are to-day issued.

9. A collection of the recent Resolutions and orders of Government, in compliance with which these rules are prescribed, will shortly be issued in the form of selections from the records of this office.

10. Arrangements are also in progress for supplying to every Patwárí a copy of the Arithmetic and Mensuration Manuals recently compiled in the Settlement Department.

Extracts paragraphs 1 and 2 of Punjab Government letter No. 215, dated 26*th September* 1884, to the Officiating Senior Secretary to the Financial Commissioner, Punjab.

In continuation of my letter No. 214* of to-day's date, and in reply to your letter No. 175 of the 5th instant, I am directed by the Lieutenant-Governor to convey approval to the proposal of the Financial Commissioner that the revised rules for Patwárís and Kánúngos be introduced tentatively with a view to criticism and revision after experience of their actual working, pending the enactment of a new Land Revenue Act for the Punjab.

* Vide Proceeding, Revenue, Nos. 10-13A, September 1884.

2. Rule 18 of the present Patwárí Rules and Rule 8 (7) of the Kánúngo Rules, which have the force of law, give the Financial Commissioner power to issue subsidiary instructions regarding the duties of those classes; and as the principal alterations made in the proposed rules, viz., the grading of Patwárís' pay, the appointment of Patwárís, by the Deputy Commissioner, and the limitation of hereditary claims to the post of Patwárí, consist of changes which it has long been admitted are necessary, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks that there need be no hesitation in introducing the whole set of rules as executive orders previous to their being made in part rules having the force of law. The other principal change proposed, viz., that the sanction of the Commissioner of the division should no longer be required to transfers of land to outsiders, had perhaps better be postponed until the final revision of the rules. As soon as a complete copy of the revised rules is submitted to this office, this matter will be reported to the Government of India, in the Department of Agriculture and Revenue, for information. It is understood that only certain portions of the instructions prepared by Colonel Wace will hereafter be embodied in rules having the force of law, and that the remaining portions will form executive orders to be issued by the Financial Commissioner. It would be obviously undesirable to prescribe returns and statements in rules of the first class, as any petty alteration subsequently considered necessary in them would thus require the sanction of the Local Government.

Circular No. 12, dated Lahore, 6th February 1885.

Patwaris-Kanungos.

Instructions for the re-organisation of the Kánúngo establishments.

In continuation of Circular No. 11 of this date, issuing new Patwárí and Kánúngo Rules, and with reference to Chapter IX of those rules, the Financial Commissioner, with the sanction of Government, issues the following instructions for the re-organisation of the Kánúngo establishments in the province.

2. The establishment sanctioned for each district is shown in the schedule appended to this circular. The new establishments will involve an increased expenditure of Rs. 1,28,000 per annum, thereby more than doubling the sum hitherto spent on the agency employed in supervising the maintenance of the village records of the province. The return which will be made for this extra charge will depend very much on the care with which the new establishments are organised. And the Government have, therefore, directed that in appointing the new establishment in each district the following procedure shall be observed.

3. In districts under settlement, including the whole of the Karnál and Ferozepore districts, new establishments may be appointed at once. The Settlement Officer will select suitable men from the existing Kánúngo establishment, from his own Settlement establishment and from the district Pátwarís. Settlement Munserims may be appointed at once to the 25 or 30 rupees grade, if they already draw in the Settlement Department salaries of that amount

4. In the Muzaffargarh and Mooltan districts, where temporary establishments of full strength have already been organised for Kánúngo work in anticipation of the permanent sanction now received, full effect can be given to the revised scheme at once.

5. In other districts except Kángra (as regards which see paragraph 16 below), the Deputy Commissioner will prepare, in the form annexed, a list of the persons whom he considers suitable, sending it direct to the Director of Settlements and Revenue Records. The Director will then either himself examine these persons, visiting the district for the purpose, or make proposals to the Commissioner of the division for their examination by a suitable Revenue Officer. After this examination, the Director will certify to the Deputy Commissioner which of the persons examined are suitable candidates. From the candidates so approved, the Deputy Commissioner will then fill up all vacancies in the establishment sanctioned for his district. And on his reporting through the Commissioner to this office that he has done so, the Accountant-General will be authorized to pass the Kánúngo establishment bills of that district at the strength and rates of the new schedule. A list of the new establishment, in the form (2) appended to this circular, should accompany the Deputy Commissioner's report.

6. The preliminary examination and certificate required by the previous paragraph are not to be understood as taking the place of that required by paragraph 96 (2) of the new Kánúngo Rules. They are desired by Government as a check upon the too hurried organisation of the new establishments.

7. The Director of Settlements will, on application being made to him, arrange to place, at the disposal of Deputy Commissioners of districts not under settlement, the services of as many Munserims as can be spared. A certain number of candidates have been under training during the past two years in expectation of demands of this nature. Applications under this paragraph should not be addressed to Settlement Officers direct. No Munserims should be appointed to the Kánúngo establishment either pursuant to this paragraph or pursuant to paragraph 3, unless he is a native of a district in the Punjab under Government's direct administration; and, so far as possible, Munserims selected should be natives either of the district to which they are appointed, or of its vicinity.

8. A Settlement Munserim transferred to the Kánúngo establishment may count as service qualifying for field allowances his previous service as Settlement Munserim; and the Settlement Officer's certificate of his efficiency will be accepted in place of that of the Director of Settlements. This permission is given, in order that a proportion of the best Settlement Munserims may be made available for such appointments.

Kánúngo Rule 96 (5).

9. The arrangements made under paragraphs 3, 4, and 5 of this Circular must in all cases absorb the existing establishment of Kánúngos. If these establishments include men who are not likely to qualify for efficient work, the Deputy Commissioner will deal with such cases on their merits. But ample time should be given to all incumbents who are able and willing to qualify. This instruction applies equally to the Girdáwars appointed in districts recently settled.

The Deputy Commissioner's list (prepared under paragraph 2 of this circular) should include all existing Girdáwars. It is believed that most of these officials are well qualified for the new Kánúngoships, more especially because they were usually selected from the best Patwáris. The Director of Settlements in his examination of the candidates should give especial attention to these Girdáwars; and such of them as, with reference to the above remarks, are approved by him should, in the absence of any clear disqualification of character, be appointed to the new establishment, so far as vacancies can be found for them. They need not be passed over merely on the ground of age.

10. The field allowances provided by paragraph 96 (5) of the rules for half the field Kánúngos of each district are granted as encouragements to continued personal exertion. When a Kánúngo has been awarded an allowance of this kind, it is not intended that it should be withdrawn from him, except on well-considered grounds. On the other hand, such payments will in every case be strictly personal and temporary, being earned from half-year to half-year by work of a specially good and high order.

11. Particular attention is requested to Rule 104. It is of the greatest importance that from the commencement of the new system all Kánúngos should be required to reside within their circles. The discretion which the rule allows to Deputy Commissioners, to permit exceptions to it, should not be exercised except for special local reasons of a public nature. The personal and family necessities of a Kánúngo are in no case to be considered as a reason for his residence outside his circle. Inside each circle an agricultural village (if possible one where there is a post office) should be selected, with the Deputy Commissioner's approval for the residence of the Kánúngo; and in the selection of that village and in its change from time to time within the circle, there is no objection to the convenience of the Kánúngo being considered by the Deputy Commissioner, so far as may be consistent with the proper performance of the Kánúngo's official duties. Field Kánúngos should not usually be allowed to reside in large towns, even within their circles. The more closely they can be associated with the agricultural population the better.

12. The Accountant-General will issue instructions as to the procedure for drawing Kánúngos' salaries, field allowances, and stationery allowances.

13. Your attention is requested to paragraph 96 (g) of the new Kánúngo Rules, disallowing travelling allowances to field and office Kánúngos This rules does not apply to district Kánúngos, whose travelling allowance has now been fixed at eight annas a day. A district Kánúngo is not entitled to draw travelling allowance at mileage rates for rapid journeys in his own district, but both district and other Kánúngos are entitled to charge for railway journeys under Chapter X of the Travelling Allowance Code.

14. As regards appointments to future vacancies the particular attention of Deputy Commissioners is invited to paragraph 97 of the rules. In future not only Kánúngoships, but also the posts of Tahsil Wásil-Baki Navís and Siahnavís, should, whenever possible, be filled up from the establishment of Patwárís. Similarly, not only the district Kánúngo, but also the district Wásil-Báki Navís and record-keeper should be appointed by selection from among the Kánúngos. Commissioners are requested to see that this instruction is duly acted up to. Its object is, on the one hand, to improve the prospects of Patwárís, and so raise their respectability and efficiency, and, on the other hand, to secure in the several grades of the Deputy Commissioner's establishment a practical knowledge of revenue duties.

15. From the date on which the new Kánúngo establishment of any district is organised, the payment of salaries or allowances from the Pátwarí cess to Náib-Kánúngos, Girdáwars, chief Patwárís, or other supervising officials, is strictly prohibited.

16. As regards the organisation of the new Kánúngo establishment in the Kángra district, separate instructions will be issued to the Commissioner of Jullundur. Pending receipt of these instructions, no action should be taken on the sanction for the Kángra district entered in the schedule hereto appended.

METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL SUMMARY OF THE PROVINCE OF BENGAL FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER 1885.

The meteorology of Bengal in December is usually of simple character, and is similar to that described under the normal meteorology of November. The conditions are those of the full development of the north-east monsoon, and the month is characterised by steadily reducing temperature and increasing pressure, the sky is practically cloudless, and a steady northerly wind current blows over the whole Province. The steady reduction of temperature is perhaps the most prominent feature of the month, and it is due to the diminishing altitude of the sun and to the decrease in the length of the days, combined with the fact that as the air is generally dry, and the sky free from cloud, radiation at night goes on rapidly, and thus more heat is lost at night than is gained from the sun's rays in the shortened days. The nocturnal radiation being rapid, there is a considerable difference between the day and night temperatures, and the daily range throughout the month is considerable. The radiation of heat from the earth is to a great extent dependent on the absence or presence of cloud and on the amount of humidity, so that generally speaking these three conditions vary concurrently, and any cause which produces an increase of cloud and humidity will sensibly retard nocturnal radiation, and thus night temperatures will be higher than usual.

The normal meteorological features of December are, however, liable to be disturbed by the occurrence of two classes of usual conditions. The first class of abnormal actions is due to the occurrence of cyclonic disturbances, which, however, are of rare occurrence, and are only produced in the extreme south of the Bay. It is very rarely that such a disturbance affects the weather in Bengal in December; but if the storm is a large one, it may give clouded skies and a few rain showers to South Bengal, and particularly to Orissa. Smaller disturbances, however, of this kind usually only intensify the north-east monsoon conditions in Bengal by the indraught towards them. The second class of abnormal conditions is brought about by what may be called land storms. These usually commence in Northern India, and drift in an easterly and south-easterly direction, reaching as far as Behar and the Central Provinces, and more rarely extending to Bengal proper. These are usually accompanied by rather rapidly falling pressure, clouded skies, and light but general rain; and though during their existence they give increased temperature, they are generally followed by a period of rapidly reducing and low temperature.

The normal average rainfall of the month is very small, and in no district does it amount to half an inch. The two districts which receive the largest amounts of rain are Orissa and East Bengal, which show a mean December rainfall of between four and five hundreths of an inch. South-West Bengal, North Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur receive amounts of about one and two-tenths of an inch, and the whole of Behar does not receive as much as a tenth of an inch of rain in normal years.

Meteorological summary of the month.—The weather conditions in December have afforded a good example of the conditions described under the normal meteorology for the month. For the first week pressure was higher than the normal, temperature was decidedly lower than usual, humidity was low, the sky was almost free from cloud, and there was no rain. At the end of the first week conditions over Northern India became disturbed, and the disturbance extended in an easterly and southerly direction, and from about the 11th to the 14th these disturbed conditions obtained over Bengal, where rain showers were fairly general over Behar, Chutia Nagpur and North Bengal, and during which period a few showers fell in other districts. A second disturbance then commenced in Northern and Central India, and these disturbed conditions drifted over Bengal and affected the weather conditions from the 18th up to the 21st, when again general and in some cases moderately heavy rain was received over the whole province. For the period from the 11th up to the 21st pressure was generally very distinctly below the normal, temperatures and particularly the night temperatures were considerably above the normal, the sky became rather heavily clouded, (and during the two periods 11th to the 14th and the 18th up to the 21st in particular in many cases the sky was almost overcast); humidity was also high, and the wind systems to a certain extent changed, and there was a considerable easterly element in their direction. With the disappearance of these conditions, however, and with the setting in of a steady northerly wind current, temperatures over the province fell with extreme rapidity, the sky quickly cleared and became cloudless, and all the weather conditions became of a strongly pronounced north-easterly monsoon character, and these conditions have continued up till the close of the month. The average conditions for the whole month have therefore been not very far removed from the normal; the mean pressure of the province for the month has been nearly equal to the average; the variations of mean temperature from the normal have been slight; cloud proportion and humidity have generally been in excess; and rainfall has been in considerable excess in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and Behar, in moderate excess in South-West Bengal, and in slight excess in North Bengal; while the only district which has reported a slightly defective fall has been East Bengal.

Pressure—Was for the first few days of the month decidedly above the normal, the average excess equalling about 0·075 inches, and in some cases the excess was more than a tenth of an inch. With the commencement of disturbed conditions over Upper India, and with their gradual extension over Bengal, pressure slowly but continuously fell, and for the period 7th to the 18th pressure had become in defect by an average amount of 0·02 inches. This defect was in the following week increased to nearly 0·05 inches, but with the gradual disappearance of the disturbance pressure rose, and in the week ending the 25th instant the defect was only

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, BENGAL,
The 12th January 1886.

0 02 inches, and in the last week of the month the defect had entirely disappeared, and had been replaced by an excess of more than 0·06 inches. During the existence of the disturbed conditions also the variations were decidedly irregular in character, but at the close of the month the distribution of the excess pressure was very uniform.

The variations of temperature during the month have been considerable. For the first few days temperature was decidedly below the normal; a considerable period of large excess temperature then followed, but after the general, and in some cases heavy, rainfall from the 18th to the 21st temperature fell with extraordinary rapidity, and for the last eight or ten days of the month temperature was decidedly below the normal. The extreme rapidity of the fall may be judged from the fact that at Julpigoree from the night of the 22nd to that of the 23rd temperature fell 12°, at Dinagepore or the same interval, but from the 21st to the 22nd the fall was 11°, at Bhagulpore it was 10°, and at Rungpore it was 8°. For the two nights from the 21st to the 23rd the fall of minimum temperatures averaged nearly 10° over the whole province, while at certain stations, such as Comilla, the fall was nearly 15°. Temperature having then been above the normal for nearly half the month and below it for the remainder, the mean temperature of the month has not been far removed from the normal, and in no district is the variation as large as one degree. Chutia Nagpur and Orissa show mean temperatures slightly in defect, and Behar, South-West, and East Bengal temperatures slightly in excess. All districts reported very low minimum temperatures at the latter end of the month and the lowest actual temperatures for the month at any station in the plains (excluding the Chutia Nagpur stations) was 42·9° at Motihari.

Rainfall as above stated has been confined to the two periods 11th to the 14th and the 18th up to the 21st, and the rainfall has been brought by the disturbed conditions which have extended over Bengal from Upper and Central India. Rainfall has therefore been heaviest in the western districts, while it has been comparatively light in the eastern districts. Chutia Nagpur has received the largest amount, and has averaged 2 20 inches for the month. The normal fall in this district in December is only 0·13 inch, so the actual fall has been many times in excess of the normal. South Behar has received an average amount of 1·66 inches against a normal fall of 0 09 inch, which is again many times larger than the normal. Orissa has averaged 1·49 inches, the normal fall being 0 41 inch, or more than three times the normal; North Behar has received 0·97 inch, while the normal fall is only 0·07 inch, the actual being thirteen times as great as the normal; South-West Bengal has received 0·73 inch, the normal fall being 0·24 inch, the actual being more than three times the normal; while in North Bengal the average fall has been 0·32 inch, which is just double the normal fall. In East Bengal, on the other hand, the rainfall has only averaged 0·26 inch against the normal 0·44 inch, and this district has thus received a decidedly defective fall of scarcely more than half the normal.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven Meteorological Divisions of the Province for the month of December 1885 :—

CALCUTTA, the 11*th January* 1886.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 8TH JANUARY 1886.

THE meteorological conditions of the past week have again been typical of the north-east monsoon, and weather in Bengal has been uninterruptedly fine throughout the week. Pressure has been extremely high: temperature and humidity decidedly low: the skies almost cloudless: a steady northerly current has blown over the whole Province, and absolutely no rain has fallen.

The extremely high average pressure has been one of the most important features of the week, and the excess above the normal for this period over the whole province has been no less than 0·115." This is of course a very large excess, and the mean daily pressure throughout the week has been extremely high. This large excess pressure has also been very evenly distributed, and with one or two exceptions no stations in the province show a smaller excess than a tenth of an inch.

Temperature—Has continued decidedly low throughout the week and in all districts except, perhaps, South Behar, the mean temperature for the week is in defect of the normal. The largest defect has been in Orissa, where the actual temperature has averaged 3·2° below the normal. In Chutia Nagpur the defect has been 2·6°, while over the whole province the defect has averaged about 1·5°. Some extremely low minimum temperatures have been recorded during the week, and thus Krishnagore on the 2nd registered 46·9°, Rungpore on the 2nd reported 44·6°, Motihari on the 7th registered 41·8°, and Buxar on the 2nd reported 44·5°

The variation of mean maximum temperature from the normal during this week has not been so large as in previous weeks, and for the first time during the past month the defect of temperature has been almost equally large in the night or minimum temperatures as in the day or maximum temperatures. This is shown in the accompanying table, where the mean maximum and minimum temperatures for the week at eight selected stations in the province are compared with the normal temperatures for the same period.

Names of Stations.	Maximum Day Temperature.			Minimum Night Temperature.
	Normal averages for week.	Actual averages for week.	Difference.	Normal averages for week.	Actual averages for week.	Difference.

* Mean of six days.

From this it will be seen that while the day temperatures have averaged 1·5° below the normal, the night temperatures have been 1·2° below it as judged by the returns at these typical stations. The defect has therefore been evenly distributed during both day and night.

As previously stated, rainfall has been entirely absent over the province for the week.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 8th of January 1886:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans, above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

General Remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during the five weeks ended 28th November 1885.

INCREASES.

Coal and Coke.—There has been an increase in the upwards and a decrease in the downwards coal, resulting in a net increase. In the up traffic the increase was due to despatches for the Rajputana, Malwa, Sind Punjab and Delhi, and Great Indian Peninsula Railways, and the decrease in the down traffic to ordinary fluctuation.

Cotton.—The increase in this commodity was principally in despatches from Cawnpore, Etawah, Firozabad, and Agra, and may be ascribed to good crops and an active demand in Calcutta for shipment.

Piece-goods.—This is attributable to good clearances, as reported from up-country dealers, on second hands at Cawnpore, Delhi, and elsewhere.

Wheat.—The increase in this staple was due to increased demand for export.

Gram and Pulses.—Owing to demand in Calcutta for shipment to Madras and other ports.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—This increase was chiefly in despatches from Burdwan and stations on the loop line below Sahebgunge for Howrah and other down-country stations.

Opium.—Consequent on the sale arrangements of Government.

Sugar, refined and unrefined.—This increase represents a recovery from the bad traffic during November 1884.

DECREASES.

Indigo.—Due to partial failure of the crops.

Iron.—This decrease is attributable to ordinary fluctuation of trade.

Ghee.—This is due to dull markets at Calcutta and Benares.

Railway materials, foreign.—This was principally in materials for the Oudh and Rohilkhund Railway.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 1.)

NORTH-EAST COAST OF AFRICA.

THE Board of Trade has issued the following warning to vessels rounding Cape Guardafui from the Southward or Eastward:—

From the end of 1876 to July 1882, there were ten casualties near the Cape. They occurred chiefly during the period of the S.W. monsoon—April to September. In this season the weather is stormy, the currents are strong, and the land is generally obscured by a thick haze, which is thicker in the lower strata.

The similarity between the outlines of the headlands of Rás Jered Hafún, 12 miles South of Cape Guardafui, and that Cape, from which it is separated by a broad, sandy plain, is a fertile source of disaster. In hazy weather at night the steep fall of Jered Hafún is dimly seen, and when this bears S. of W., if Guardafui is not sighted, as is often the case, the navigator fancies he has rounded it already, and steers to the westward into the low Bay of Wadi Tohum. In such cases the lead, and the lead alone, until a light is established on or near Cape Guardafui, can ensure safety. The directions given in the Gulf of Aden Pilot, and the precautions to be observed, cannot be too earnestly recommended to seamen.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT having been found necessary to have recourse to legislation for the purpose of increasing the public revenues, it has been decided to extend the existing License Tax to offices, employments and professions, and, generally, to make liable to assessment all incomes derived from sources other than agriculture.

The existing License Tax Acts are repealed and a single Act for all India is substituted.

The rate of the tax has been slightly raised, and the area of its incidence has been, as above stated, extended; but the principles of the License Tax are closely followed in the case of annual incomes below Rs. 2,000, and the procedure and machinery for assessment and collection are maintained in the case of all incomes so far as is consistent with the altered conditions of the tax.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

≡ fog, △ dew, (I) lunar halo.

N.B.—In the weekly abstract from 3rd to 9th January 1886 read 55 instead of 5 as the number of miles of the movement of wind of the 9th.

CALCUTTA, the 18th January 1886.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 15TH OF JANUARY 1886.

THE meteorological conditions which obtained in Bengal at the close of the previous week were very high pressure, temperature decidedly lower than the normal, humidity also decidedly low, the skies almost cloudless and absence of rain. These conditions continued up to the 9th, but from the 10th instant pressure commenced to fall, and the fall continued rather rapidly on the 11th, and from this date to the end of the week there has been a slow and continuous reduction of pressure. The falling pressure was apparently connected in the first instance with slightly disturbed atmospheric conditions in Northern India, and with the continued reduction of pressure, skies in Bengal rather rapidly clouded over, temperature and humidity increased, and there were indications of possible rainfall, though no rain has actually been reported at any of the recording stations. Towards the close of the week, however, conditions again appeared to be becoming settled, as the movements of the barometer were more uniform, and the skies were clearing, while humidity and temperature were not rising so rapidly.

Pressure—Which was during the previous week no less than 0·115″ above the normal, has during the present week fallen nearly to the normal, and the excess for the week for the whole province has been reduced to 0·02″. In some parts of the province, indeed, such as Behar, the mean pressure has been below the normal, while the seat of the largest excess is East Bengal, where it is between 0 03″ and 0·04″.

Temperature—Still continues generally somewhat below the normal, but the mean defect is less than 1°. Temperature is now practically normal in North Behar, East Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, while it is about 1° below the normal in South-West Bengal, Orissa and South Behar. It is again in the day temperatures that the largest defects are noticeable. In the table below the mean maximum and minimum temperatures for the week at eight selected stations in the province are compared with the normal temperatures for the same period, and it will be seen that in the case of these eight stations the day temperatures have averaged 1·2° in defect of the normal, while in the night or minimum temperatures there has been an excess of 0·1° :—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans, above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

INCREASE. Tons.

Edible grain 270

This increase is due to high rate of rice consequent on the floods in Moorshedabad district on account of the breakage of the Laltiakuri embankment and better prospect of kalai crop this year.

Coal 530

This increase is due to merchants not laying in stock during the rainy season as they used to do before; also to extensive brick-burning for repairs of buildings damaged by earthquake.

DECREASE.

Revenue stores 64

This is due to less stores carried during this month.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 1.)

NORTH-EAST COAST OF AFRICA.

THE Board of Trade has issued the following warning to vessels rounding Cape Guardafui from the Southward or Eastward :—

From the end of 1876 to July 1882, there were ten casualties near the Cape. They occurred chiefly during the period of the S.W. monsoon—April to September. In this season the weather is stormy, the currents are strong, and the land is generally obscured by a thick haze, which is thicker in the lower strata.

The similarity between the outlines of the headlands of Rás Jered Hafún, 12 miles South of Cape Guardafui, and that Cape, from which it is separated by a broad, sandy plain, is a fertile source of disaster. In hazy weather at night the steep fall of Jered Hafún is dimly seen, and when this bears S. of W., if Guardafui is not sighted, as is often the case, the navigator fancies he has rounded it already, and steers to the westward into the low Bay of Wadi Tohum. In such cases the lead, and the lead alone, until a light is established on or near Cape Guardafui, can ensure safety. The directions given in the Gulf of Aden Pilot, and the precautions to be observed, cannot be too earnestly recommended to seamen.

By direction of the Government of Bengal,

ARTHUR W. STIFFE, Captain, I. M.,
Port Officer of Calcutta.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT having been found necessary to have recourse to legislation for the purpose of increasing the public revenues, it has been decided to extend the existing License Tax to offices, employments and professions, and, generally, to make liable to assessment all incomes derived from sources other than agriculture.

The existing License Tax Acts are repealed and a single Act for all India is substituted.

The rate of the tax has been slightly raised, and the area of its incidence has been, as above stated, extended; but the principles of the License Tax are closely followed in the case of annual incomes below Rs. 2,000, and the procedure and machinery for assessment and collection are maintained in the case of all incomes so far as is consistent with the altered conditions of the tax.

AMENDMENT OF THE VACCINATION ACT.

THE HON. MR. REYNOLDS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Bengal Act V of 1880 (to make vaccination compulsory), and in doing so he said:—The measure which I ask leave to introduce is intended to remedy some defects which experience has brought to light in the working of the Bengal Vaccination Act. The practice of inoculation for small-pox was prohibited in Calcutta in 1865, which was the year in which the most fatal outbreak of small-pox, of which we have any record, occurred in the Town. In that year the deaths from small-pox in Calcutta amounted to 4,923. The practice of inoculation was then prohibited, but it was thought that the time had not fully come for the introduction of a compulsory vaccination law. During the next ten years the Town was comparatively free from the disease, but there was another epidemic in 1875, and a still more serious one in 1878-79, the number of deaths in those two years having amounted to 2,267. It was the serious epidemic of 1878-79 which led to the enactment of the compulsory law of 1880, which is the law still in force. The provisions of that Act, omitting such as are of a temporary character, are briefly as follow:—The population is divided into children and adults: those under fourteen years of age being reckoned as children. All children born within Calcutta or the Suburbs must be vaccinated within one year of their birth; children born outside Calcutta, but brought within it when under one year of age, must be vaccinated within fifteen months of their birth, and all other children coming within the limits of the Town must be vaccinated within six months of their arrival. With regard to adults, they may be served with a notice requiring them to be vaccinated within fifteen days. The Act has worked with very fair success in Calcutta, the Municipal Commissioners having shown great energy in its administration, and the number of vaccinations has steadily increased year by year. The report of a Special Committee of the Municipality, to whom the question of the working of the Act was referred for consideration, shows that the number of vaccinations has for some time exceeded the number of births, as shown by the registration returns, by about 10 per cent.; but the Calcutta Health Officer's report for 1884, which is a very interesting and valuable paper, shows that in that year the number of vaccinations exceeded the number of registered births by no less than 50 per cent. The staff under the Health Officer consists of a Deputy Superintendent, an Assistant Superintendent, 21 vaccinators, and 2 female vaccinators, and a system of house-to-house visitation has been established to see that the law is not evaded. On the whole, I believe that the protection given under the Act to children and permanent residents in the Town is pretty nearly as complete as it can be made, but unfortunately it has not succeeded in stamping out small-pox in Calcutta: on the contrary, the special activity with which the Act was worked in 1884 was stimulated by an outbreak of the disease, which was far less serious than those of previous epidemic years, but which nevertheless caused 478 deaths in that year. Experience has shown what are the weak parts in our armour, and it is clear that, though the Act may be sufficient for the protection of children and permanent residents, it does not adequately meet the cases of immigrants, visitors, and temporary sojourners. In connection with this point, I will read to the Council some extracts from the report of Dr. O'Brien for 1884:—

"Our difficulty lies in the thousands of unprotected persons of all ages who swarm into the Town annually, and who either import the infection directly, or imbibe it in the Town or the Suburbs. Now that Calcutta is so intimately connected by means of lines of railway and other routes of traffic with districts in which inoculation is still practised without restraint, and in which small-pox breaks out nearly every year, there will never be a lack of the contagium of the disease. During the year several cases were reported in which persons actually suffering from the disease arrived in the Town. In November, for instance, the steamer Darlington arrived in port from Jeddah with several cases of small-pox on board. In the same month the steamer Empress of India arrived with the crew suffering from the disease. The sufferers were sent to hospital, and all unaffected persons on board were re-vaccinated. In December the disease broke out in Khalasitollah in the Taltollah ward, a locality in which a large number of native boatmen reside, and it was plain that the disease was imported by them. From Taltollah the disease spread into the neighbouring ward of Fenwick Bazar."

Then Dr. O'Brien gave a map which showed the local prevalence of small-pox in the several wards of the Town which suffered most from the disease, and remarked—

"The broad fact to be gathered from the map is that the quarters of the Town which are mainly occupied by permanent residents do not suffer from small-pox in the same proportion as the quarters which are the chief resort of strangers. * * * Wards Nos. 5 and 7, viz. Jorabagan and Burra Bazar, are essentially strangers' wards, the proportion of Calcutta-born persons in the former being only 18 and in the latter 11 per cent. and they suffered heavily. * * * * * * Ward No. 14, Taltollah, presents a high mortality compared with the neighbouring wards. There were in all 28 deaths in this ward, but nearly half of these occurred in Khalasitollah, a quarter largely frequented by native boatmen. In fact in the wards where the population is largely made up of permanent residents, a class among whom complete protection by means of vaccination is possible, there is very little small-pox, and in the wards where the number of immigrants is large, the disease prevails much more extensively."

The case of the Darlington, which arrived from Jeddah with small-pox on board, and which is referred to in this report, is more particularly noticed in a report made by Dr. Lynch, the Health Officer of the Port, to the Sanitary Commissioner. Writing on 30th November 1884, he brings to notice the case of the Darlington, which arrived in port with 677 returned pilgrims, and he said—

"The S. S. Darlington arrived in port on the 4th instant with 677 returned pilgrims from Jeddah, amongst whom small-pox had broken out on the voyage, fourteen of them having been found suffering from it on arrival. The disease had also extended to the European crew, five of whom have, up to date, been removed to the Small-pox Hospital.

It seems desirable that the sanitary authority should have the power of limiting the spread of small-pox in the localities to which these pilgrims are returning by the immediate vaccination of all unprotected persons found on board infected vessels on arrival.

No such power is given by section 13 of the Bengal Vaccination Act, which provides for the serving of notices on unprotected persons. Such a provision is inapplicable to the case of pilgrims, who disperse at once over Lower Bengal when they land.

It is also an insufficient safeguard in the case of the crews of vessels infected with small-pox. Within the limit of fifteen days allowed by the Act the men may ship in other vessels, or they may scatter over the town in sailors' boarding-houses, &c., carrying small-pox with them."

The nature of the evils to be remedied being thus clearly indicated, the Bill proposes to remedy them, first, by allowing notices to be served on the parents of children, in the same way as in the case of adults, requiring such children to be vaccinated within fifteen days of the service of notice; secondly, by allowing the Health Officer of the Port to require any unprotected person on board any ship arriving in port to be vaccinated; and thirdly, by allowing public vaccinators reasonable access to houses in order to ascertain whether the inmates are protected or not. I should like to be permitted to say a few words on each of these proposals. The first of these proposals was made by the Special Committee of the Municipal Commissioners, and their recommendation is strongly supported by the Health Officer of Calcutta. I think it must be clear that it may be very desirable, not merely to require children to be vaccinated within a certain time after birth, but under certain circumstances to permit some responsible authority to require children to be vaccinated within fifteen days. When a child is in the vicinity of an outbreak of small-pox, it may be necessary that protection should be given at once; but under the Act a child born in Calcutta cannot be required to be vaccinated till a year after its birth, or, when brought into Calcutta after birth, within fifteen months of its birth. If, therefore, a child is two months old when brought into Calcutta, the law does not compel its vaccination till after thirteen months. With regard to the second proposal of the Bill, it may be thought that this is a somewhat stringent measure; but I see that the Port Health Officer declares that it is already the law and practice in New York. I have not been able to verify that statement, so I cannot say whether it is correct; but I may be allowed to refer to the provision of the English Public Health Act of 1875, section 110, which puts ships on the same footing as houses, and declares that the master or officer in charge of a ship shall, for the purposes of the Act, be considered to be the occupier of a house. It will not be necessary to extend a measure of this kind to vessels belonging to the Government or Her Majesty's Navy, or to the vessels of any foreign State. Such vessels are exempted from the Ports Act of 1875, and they would properly be exempted from the provisions of this Bill; but with regard to other vessels, a provision of this sort is essentially necessary to guard against such cases as those of the Darlington and the Empress of India, and to prevent the spread of contagion. The third proposal made in the Bill arose out of the report of the Municipal Committee, which said—

"The law gives no power to any officer to enter into a house and ascertain whether the inmates are protected or not. Most houses allow free ingress to vaccination, but it is reported that persons coming from the North-West often refuse, and they are the very persons among whom protection is most defective."

That was confirmed by Dr. O'Brien's report, in which it was stated that—

"a large proportion of the population of the Jorasanko Ward consists of Marwaries and other persons from up-country who are vehemently opposed to vaccination. In fact, more opposition to vaccination is felt in this Ward and in Jorabagan and Burra Bazar than in any other part of the town. Small-pox, as might be expected, is more prevalent in them than in any other part."

I do not think that I need say more, except that the Bill has been drafted, and if leave is given it may be introduced at the next meeting of the Council.

The motion was put and agreed to.

AMENDMENT OF THE CALCUTTA POLICE ACT.

The Hon. Mr. Reynolds moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Calcutta Police Act of 1866. He said:—This is an amending Bill, the necessity for which has been pressed on the Government by the Commissioner of Police. The Calcutta Police Act IV of 1866, like similar Acts which preceded it, gives power to the police to arrest without warrant any person committing, in their presence and view, any of the offences referred to in the Act. Now, in the former Act XIII of 1856, and in Act XLVIII of 1860 which is to be read with the Act of 1856, there was a provision which declared that whoever is found drunk and incapable of taking care of himself, or is guilty of any riotous, disorderly, or indecent behaviour in any street or thoroughfare, or place of public amusement or resort, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 20, or to imprisonment with or without hard labour for a term not exceeding fourteen days. When that section was reproduced, or partly reproduced, in the existing Act IV of 1866, the wording was changed so as to make the section applicable, not to persons who are drunk and incapable of taking care of themselves, or guilty of any riotous, disorderly, or indecent behaviour, but simply to persons who are in such a state of drunkenness as to be incapable of taking care of themselves. The consequence is, as the Commissioner of Police has pointed out, that the police have no authority to arrest drunken persons behaving in a riotous and disorderly manner, unless they are incapable of taking care of themselves. It is quite evident that a man who is capable of taking care of himself, though intoxicated, is capable of brawling and behaving in a violent manner; but under the law, as it stands, the police cannot arrest him unless he is incapable of taking care of himself. I think the Council will agree that this is a power which the police ought to have; it was a power which they possessed under the previous Act, but which, apparently by an oversight in the wording of the amending Act, has been taken away. It is a power, I may also mention, given to the police by the Mofussil Police Act V of 1861.

Another matter in which the law requires amendment is of a similar character. The law at present does not authorise the police to arrest persons who commit a nuisance, or indecently expose themselves, in the streets or other public places: that was also a power given under Act XIII of 1856, and reproduced in the Act of 1866; but that section has since been repealed, and a provision of that kind is considered very necessary for the protection of public order and decency

This Bill also has been drafted, and I can introduce it at the next meeting if permission is now given.

The motion was put and agreed to.

AMENDMENT OF THE VILLAGE CHOWKIDARI ACT.

The Hon. Mr. Garrett moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Village Chowkidari Act of 1870. He said:—In asking for leave to introduce a Bill for the amendment of the Chowkidari Act, it is unnecessary, after what was said at our opening meeting, that I should take up the time of the Council with any account of the condition of the village watchman prior to the introduction of that Act.

Act VI of 1870 was framed in a spirit of entire trust in the village community, and it was hoped that, when the control of the village police was placed in the hands of the villagers themselves, a sense of self-interest would induce them to co-operate honestly and cordially in the detection of crime, and that a sense of justice would induce them to see that the village watchman was regularly paid. But although a measure of success has been attained by this Act, and things are now better than they were before it, especially in the way of securing to the village watchmen a more regular payment of their wages, yet it seems certain that that measure of success is far less than the framers of the Act hoped for.

In the practical working of the Act four things have come out very plainly—

1st—That the office of punchayet is extremely distasteful to those who are called on to serve in it.

2nd—That the salaries of the watchmen are still paid much less regularly than they ought to be.

3rd—That the punchayets have not co-operated cordially with the police in the detection of crime, and that their influence has been exerted rather to prevent the detection of it.

4th—That the watchmen, being now appointed by the punchayets, and liable to be punished and dismissed by them, think that they owe allegiance to them only, and therefore the regular police have, to a considerable extent, lost touch of the village watchmen, who, after all, are in this country the people to whom the regular police must chiefly look for the information to enable them to detect crime.

The dislike to serve on a punchayet is probably due to a great extent to the fact that the punchayets have to collect the tax themselves. The office of a tax-gatherer is always a disagreeable one, and as, in addition to the duty of gathering the tax, the punchayets are liable to have their own goods distrained if they fail to gather it, it is easy to be understood why the office has become unpopular. Indeed, so distasteful has this tax-gathering been to many of the punchayets, that they have preferred to pay the tax out of their own pockets to exacting it from their neighbours. With a view to remedy this defect, and also to provide for the more prompt collection of the tax, without which, of course, it is impossible that the chowkidars can be more regularly paid, I propose to relieve the punchayets entirely of the duty of collecting the tax and of responsibility for its non-collection. The punchayets, subject to the supervision of the Magistrate, will continue to assess the tax, and within prescribed limits to fix the number of village watchmen to be employed, and the salary to be paid to them, but the actual collection of the tax will be made entirely by paid tehsildars, one such tehsildar being appointed to every 25 villages, paid by a rateable contribution from all the villages within the circle. He will work under the control of the Magistrate. The punchayet will be relieved from all liability for the non-collection of the tax. I am afraid that the disposition of punchayets to hush up crimes—at least such as the village society desires to hush up—cannot be eradicated by any legislative enactment; but I hope to be able to do something to make the village watchmen less under the control of the punchayets and more amenable to the regular police. I do not wish in any way to make the village watchmen a sort of lower grade constables. They must, before all things, be members of the village community, because it is to them that the regular police must look principally for information of what is going on in the village. But the village watchmen must learn also that they are not merely villagers, and that they owe duties to the superior police authorities which may not always quadrate with the wishes of their fellow villagers.

I propose therefore to lay down that, although the village watchmen will be nominated by the punchayet, they shall be appointed by the Magistrate of the district, and I propose to withdraw from the punchayets entirely the power of punishing and dismissing the watchmen. This duty I propose to vest in the District Superintendent of Police, subject to the general control of the Magistrate of the district. I propose also that the village watchmen shall no longer receive their salaries from the punchayet, but shall be paid at stated periods at the police stations by the tehsildars in presence of the officer in charge of the police station. The village watchmen will also be compelled to attend at the police station at stated periods, and to report what is going on in the village.

With a view also to have the village watchmen themselves looked up rather more than they are at present, I propose that in every tehsildar's circle there shall be appointed a circle sirdar, whose duty it will be to visit frequently every village in his circle, and see and report to the police generally what is going on. Though he will always be a local man appointed from among the residents of the circle to which he belongs, I propose to make him entirely independent of the punchayet and under the direct control of the police. His salary will be provided by a rateable contribution from all the villages within his circle.

I hope that these additions will not involve any sensible increase of assessment on the villagers. I assume that the pay of a chowkidar will ordinarily not exceed Rs. 4 a month; allowing Rs. 8 a month for the circle sirdar and Rs. 18 for the circle tehsildar, inclusive of the contingent expenditure, the amount to be raised in each village will be Rs. 4, plus $\frac{1}{25}$th part of Rs. 26—say Rs. 5-2 a month.

I suppose, as a rule, that this will be distributed over 100 houses. The average of assessment on each house will be less than an anna.

I propose also to attempt, in a modest way, to utilise the village watchmen for the collection of vital and mortuary statistics. I propose to introduce a section in the Bill making it compulsory on every house-holder to report to a member of the village punchayet every birth or death taking place in his house. This information will be entered in a register which will be in a form prescribed by the Act, and the village watchman, when making his weekly report to the police station, will take with him a copy of all entries made in this register during the previous week.

There remains only one other point in the Bill to be noticed. The Council is aware that Act VI of 1870 has not been extended to all parts of Bengal. In many villages, especially in the Burdwan Division and in Orissa, the village watchman is still appointed under Regulation XX of 1817, and is paid by a grant of land. I propose to extend the present Act to all parts of the territories under the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, except Chota Nagpore, the Chittagong Hill Tracts, and the Sonthal Pergunnahs, and to abolish the system of payment by grants of land altogether. In those villages in which the watchman is now remunerated by a grant of land, I propose to resume the lands and hand them over to the zemindar at a fixed assessment, which assessment will be made an asset of the Village Watchman's Fund, and the villagers will have to raise amongst themselves only so much as will be required for the payment of the watchman, after giving credit for this amount. I am aware that this proposal is opposed to the opinions of some officers whose opinions are entitled to all respect. I am aware also that the change will involve some loss of money, and that in some villages, where the villagers have hitherto contributed nothing for the support of the village watchman, they will have to raise an assessment to supplement the sum payable by the zemindars. But I believe that the assessment will be on the whole very light, and that the advantages of introducing an uniform system and the increased control which the Magistrates will be able to exercise over the village watchmen, when they will have the complete power of the purse in their hands, will make the village watchmen much more useful for the detection of crime, and will more than compensate for a slight money loss.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 30th instant.

ASSISTANT SURGEON MOHENDRA NATH GUPTA'S TEXT-BOOK IN BENGALI ON ANATOMY.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION.

Calcutta, the 22nd January 1886.

RESOLUTION.

Re-read—

Resolution, dated the 13th December 1880, on the subject of the selection of Vernacular Text-books in Medicine and Surgery.

Read—

A letter from the Director of Public Instruction, No. 173, dated the 12th January 1886, and enclosure. The Director forwards the report of the Vernacular Medical Text-Book Committee on two text-books in Bengali on Anatomy. One written by Assistant Surgeon Kali Prosaud Chaudhury, and the other written by Assistant Surgeon Mohendro Nath Gupta.

In paragraph 5, clause 1, of the Government Resolution, dated the 13th December 1880, on the subject of the selection of vernacular text-books for medical schools in Bengal, it was stated—

"As a Bengali text-book in Anatomy Baboo Mohendra Nath Gupta's work is recommended, and will be temporarily adopted. But the work has many faults, and the author should be required to revise it carefully and pass it through a new edition, expunging the long English sentences, supplying omissions, and if possible, improving and multiplying the illustrations. If he does this to the satisfaction of the Committee, the Government will pay him a reward of Rs. 500 and finally adopt his work."

Assistant Surgeon Mohendra Nath Gupta has revised his book, and the new edition has been approved by the Medical Text-book Committee. The Lieutenant-Governor is now therefore pleased to declare that Assistant Surgeon Mohendra Nath Gupta's work is approved by Government as the Text-book on Anatomy to be used in medical schools in which Bengali is the medium of instruction.

The Lieutenant-Governor is also pleased to sanction the grant to Assistant Surgeon Mohendro Nath Gupta of a reward of Rs. 500 for his work.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MacDONNELL,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

CALCUTTA, the 25th January 1886.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 22ND OF JANUARY 1886.

AT the close of the previous week, the strongly pronounced north-east monsoon conditions, which had held since the commencement of the month, had rapidly given way, and pressure was rapidly falling below the normal, while temperature was becoming decidedly above the average, and the northerly wind current was falling off in force. On the first three or four days in the present week pressure commenced to rise slowly at most of the stations in Bengal, and conditions appeared to be becoming more normal for the period; but on Tuesday, the 19th instant, in Upper India a very considerable atmospheric disturbance commenced, which was marked by an extremely rapid fall of the barometer; this was so rapid, that at Dera Ismail Khan pressure fell nearly four-tenths of an inch, and at Mooltan it fell more than three-tenths of an inch within the twenty-four hours. This rapid fall of pressure resulted in the formation of a very distinct barometric depression over the Punjab and part of the North-West Provinces, and heavy rain fell over this area on the 19th and 20th instants. These disturbed atmospheric conditions then extended in a southerly direction, and gave heavily clouded skies over the greater part of Bengal on the 20th and 21st, while over the greater part of Behar light general rain fell on the 21st instant, and a few isolated showers fell in North Bengal. In other districts, however, the disturbed conditions were of so slight a character that no further action took place beyond the reduction of pressure for the last three days of the week, and the formation of cloud and the increase of temperature and humidity which accompanied this, and also a further considerable falling off in the strength of the northerly winds. The principal features of importance then in the meteorology of the present week have been a decided reduction of pressure, a falling off in the strength of the northerly winds, a decided increase of temperature, gradually increasing humidity, a considerable increase in the amount of cloud, and the rainfall in Behar on the 21st in connection with the disturbed conditions in Northern India.

Pressure—Was in the previous week on the average very slightly above the normal, the average variation being an excess of 0·02″, while in some parts of the province, as in Behar, the mean pressure for that week was actually below the normal. For the first three days of the present week pressure generally increased slowly, but with the development of disturbed conditions in Northern India, pressure fell very rapidly over the whole of Bengal for the second-half of the week, and the mean pressure for the present week has been no less than 0·06″ in defect of the normal. The defect, as might be expected from the conditions which have obtained, has been smallest at the eastern and southern stations, and largest at the northern and western stations.

Temperature—As previously stated, has been increasing generally during the week, and it is now rather largely in excess of the normal. The mean temperature for the whole week for the whole province has been rather more than 2° in excess of the normal, while in Orissa, North Behar and Chutia Nagpur the excess temperature has approached 3°. The variations from normal temperature have again been larger in the night or minimum temperatures than in the day or maximum temperatures. This is shown clearly in the table below, where the mean maximum and minimum temperatures for the week at eight selected stations in the province are compared with the normal temperatures for the same period. From this table it will be seen that, while the day temperatures have only been 1° in excess of the normal, the night or minimum temperatures have been no less than 3° in excess of the normal at the same stations:—

Rainfall—Has been entirely absent over the greater part of the province during the past week, the only exception being the light but rather general rain which fell over North and South Behar on the 21st, while at the same time one or two isolated showers fell in North Bengal. The amounts of rain which were received were in no case large, and in North Behar, which received the largest amount, the quantity only averaged 0·21 inch. In South Behar the general average rainfall only amounted to 0·12 inch, and in North Bengal the rainfall was only reported from one or two stations in the Maldah and Dinagepore districts and in the Darjeeling Hill Tracts, while the rest of this district was entirely rainless. The average rainfall in North Bengal in fact only amounted to a hundredth of an inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 22nd of January 1886:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans, above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorised form of age classification.

CALCUTTA, the 1st February 1886.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 29TH OF JANUARY 1886.

THE meteorology of the previous week had been characterised by a decided reduction of pressure, a falling off in the strength of the northerly winds, a decided increase in temperature with increasing humidity, and a considerable increase in the amount of cloud. The conditions on Saturday, the 23rd remained without any great alteration, though there was a slight recovery of pressure and a diminution of temperature; winds were generally northerly, but at Hazaribagh a south-easterly wind was reported, and at False Point wind was south-westerly. On the 24th instant a very rapid fall of the barometer took place accompanied by a rapid increase of temperature, and winds became decidedly irregular in direction, and in some cases they were southerly and brought up considerable amounts of moisture. On this day also light general rain fell over parts of Northern India, and the rainfall extended to several stations in Chutia Nagpur, while a few showers also fell in South-West Bengal. On the 25th instant a recovery of pressure commenced, while temperature fell slightly, and winds at the coast stations were decidedly irregular, though at the inland stations north-westerly winds were reported; and on this day occasional showers fell in Orissa and in the south-west districts of South-West Bengal, and also at one or two stations in Chutia Nagpur. Occasional sea breezes were again reported on the following two days, and gave a few local showers to Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, and on the 27th in particular rather strong moist south-westerly winds were reported from Dacca, Calcutta and False Point. As the result of the interaction of this current with the northerly wind current which was still blowing at many of the inland stations, the sky clouded over and conditions became decidedly disturbed over Southern Bengal, and general and in some cases heavy rain was reported on the 28th from the Midnapore, 24-Pergunnahs, Howrah and Hooghly districts in South-West Bengal, while light rain fell in some other districts of this division and also in East Bengal. This produced a very rapid fall of temperature over the greater part of the province, and with the driving back of the southerly winds, a fairly strong northerly current set in over the province, and cold-weather conditions again obtained, pressure being high, temperature and humidity low, and the sky nearly free from cloud.

Pressure—During the previous week had averaged no less than 0·06″ below the normal, the defect having been largest at the northern and western stations. Except on the 24th, when there was a very rapid decrease, and on the 27th, when there was a slight decrease of pressure, the barometer has been very slowly rising throughout the present week, but the fall has been in excess of the increase, and the mean pressure for the week has been almost a tenth of an inch below the normal, the defect being also comparatively evenly distributed.

Temperature—Was during the past week decidedly above the normal, the mean temperature of the whole province being about 2° in excess. For the first five days of the present week the changes were of an oscillatory nature, but after the rainfall which took place on the 28th, and when the strong northerly wind current drove back the sea winds, temperature commenced to fall with exceeding rapidity, and from the 27th to the 28th at the stations in South-Bengal, from Burrisal to Midnapore, there was an average fall in the mean temperature of 8·4°, while at Midnapore and Jessore the fall was more than 10°. The fall was particularly noticeable in the minimum temperatures, and in the case of Jessore there was a fall of 15° from the night of the 27th to the night of the 28th; at Saugor Island the fall was 13° and at the stations in South Bengal the fall averaged 11° during this interval. Notwithstanding this extremely rapid fall of temperature, the mean temperature for the whole week has again been no less than 2° in excess of the normal, though this week the excess has been mainly confined to South-West and East Bengal and Orissa, where it has equalled 3·2°, while in Behar the excess has been less than 1°.

The cause and nature of the rainfall have already been discussed, and it will have been seen that Behar and North-Bengal have been quite rainless throughout the week. Light showers fell in Chutia Nagpur, and the average amount reported in this district has only been 0·10 inch. In East Bengal the average amount recorded has been 0·12 inch, while in South-West Bengal the rainfall has equalled 0·27 inch. Orissa has received the largest amount of 0·37 inch during the week. In the three last-named districts the rainfall has been decidedly in excess of the normal, while in all other districts the fall has been in decided defect.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 29th of January 1886:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

N. B.—In the weekly abstract from 17th to 23rd January 1886, read 0·04 inches instead 0·4 inches as the average rainfall of the corresponding period for 24 years S. G.'s Office.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans, above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

Paper printed in former Paper-Book to be printed unless order to the contrary.

11. If any of the papers, which must be inserted in the Appellant's List or in the Respondent's List, was previously printed in a former Paper-Book, the fact of its having been so printed may be stated in the List in which such paper is inserted. But such paper shall nevertheless be printed, unless the Court otherwise direct.

Papers not inserted in the Paper-Book may not ordinarily be referred to at the Hearing of the Appeal.

12. No paper in the record of the case, which is not inserted in the Appellant's or Respondent's List and printed in the Paper-Book, shall be referred to at the hearing of the appeal without the special leave of the Court. If either party intends to ask such special leave in respect of any particular paper, he shall give notice of such intention to the other party not less than three days before the hearing of the appeal. But this rule shall not preclude the Court from referring to any paper to which it considers a reference necessary for the ends of justice.

Deputy Registrar to make and deliver to Appellant and Respondent an Estimate of Cost of preparing their respective portions of the Paper-Book.

13. The Deputy Registrar shall, within twenty-one days after the delivery by the Appellant and the Respondent of their Lists respectively, make and deliver to such Appellant and to such Respondent separate Estimates of the cost of preparing their proportions of the Paper-Book. Such Estimates shall state separately the cost of transcribing, translating, examining, printing, &c., at the following rates, viz.:—

(1) "estimating" at 10,000 vernacular words per rupee;
(2) "translating" at 200 vernacular words per rupee, three figures being counted as one word;

(3) "examining translations" at 400 vernacular words per rupee:
(4) "transcribing" at 1,440 words per rupee;
(5) "examining manuscripts" at 2,880 words per rupee:
(6) "editing" the Paper-Book, at eight annas per page. N. B.—"Editing" includes (a) arranging the papers for press; (b) preparing the Table of Contents required by the Rules; (c) examining and comparing proofs with "copy," such "copy" being the originals or authenticated copies of English papers, or translations where the Rules provide for translations: and the Editor is responsible that all the papers in the Lists are accurately and completely produced in the Paper-Book:
(7) "lithographing Maps" (where necessary) actual cost:
(8) "printing" at fourteen annas per page.

Paper-Book may be prepared in office of High Court or of Appellant's Vakil. Appellant to give notice of election.

14. The Paper-Book may, at the election of the Appellant, be prepared in the office of the High Court or in that of the Appellant's Vakil. Notice of such election shall be given to the Deputy Registrar by the Appellant within twenty-one days after delivery to him of the estimate prepared in accordance with Rule 13. The Deputy Registrar shall thereupon make over one of the Respondent's duplicate List to the Appellant's Vakil, giving the Respondent notice thereof.

Deposit by Appellant and Respondent of the amounts of their respective Estimates.

Procedure where amount of Deposit found to be insufficient.

Appellant may pay out of Court, when he elects to have Paper Book prepared in his Vakil's office.

15. The Appellant, save as hereinafter provided, and the Respondent in every case, shall, within thirty days after the delivery to them respectively of the Estimates prepared in accordance with Rule 13, deposit with the Accountant of the Court the full amount of their respective Estimates. If it subsequently appear that the amount so deposited by either party to the appeal is insufficient to defray the cost of preparing his portion of the Paper-Book, the Deputy Registrar shall estimate the additional amount required and shall give notice thereof to such party. Such additional amount shall be deposited by such party with the Accountant of the Court within twenty-one days after service upon him of such notice. When the Appellant elects under Rule 14 to have the Paper Book prepared in the office of his Vakil, it shall not be necessary for him to deposit the amount of his estimate with the Accountant of the Court, and he may make his own arrangement with such Vakil for payment of the cost of preparing the Paper-Book.

Apportionment of cost in respect of matter common to more than one Appeal from same Decree or to Appeals in analogous cases.

16. When separate appeals have been preferred by different persons against the same decree, complete Lists shall be delivered by the parties to each such appeal: but the Deputy Registrar may, subject to the order of the Court, apportion between the parties concerned the cost of preparation in respect of any matter common to all or any of such parties. Printed copies of such common matter may be included in the Paper-Book of each appeal, or such matter may appear in one Paper-Book only, the other Paper-Books containing references to the pages of such Paper-Book in which such matter appears. This Rule shall also apply when two or more separate appeals are preferred in analogous cases.

Procedure in case of default by Appellant or Respondent.

17. If the Appellant fail to deliver his list of papers in accordance with Rule 4, or if the Appellant or Respondent fail to make the deposit or additional deposit required by Rule 15, the Deputy Registrar shall cause the appeal to be set down for hearing by the Division Court having jurisdiction in respect thereof; and such Court may, unless satisfied that there was reasonable ground for the default—in the case of default by the Appellant, direct the appeal to be dismissed for want of prosecution—and in the case of default by the Respondent, direct that the Paper-Book be prepared in accordance with the Appellant's List, excluding the papers of the Respondent's List; or may pass such other order as may seem proper under the circumstances of the case.

Preparation of the Paper Book in the office of the High Court. Mode of preparation and arrangement.

18. When the Appellant does not, within the twenty-one days allowed by Rule 14, elect to have the Paper-Book prepared in the office of his Vakil, the Deputy Registrar shall proceed to have it prepared in the Office of the High Court, so that it may be ready within the following time from the expiry of such twenty-one days, viz.—(a) when the Paper-Book is estimated by the Deputy Registrar to consist of not more than 100 pages, within two months: (b) when the Paper-Book is estimated by the Deputy Registrar to consist of more than 100 but not more than 200 pages, within three months: (c) in any other case, within four months. The Paper-Book shall include the whole of the papers included in the Appellant's and Respondent's Lists. All papers which are not in English shall be translated into that language. Such translations and the original English papers shall be printed and arranged in the following order:—

(1) Table of Contents with reference to pages:

Appellant or Respondent may have the translations examined and certified by one of the Court's Examiners of Privy Council Appeals.

19. If the Appellant or Respondent desires that the translations of papers translated under Rule 18 be examined and certified as correct by one of the Examiners appointed by the Court for the purpose of examining and certifying translations in cases appealed to the Privy Council, he may deposit with the Accountant of the Court the cost of having such translations of papers so examined and certified, such cost to be fixed by the Deputy Registrar : and they shall thereupon be examined and certified by one of such Examiners.

Paper-Book to be printed in what form and type.

20. The Paper-Book shall be printed in accordance with the following directions issued by the Lords of the Privy Council in respect of Appeals to Her Majesty in Council :

(a) All Paper-books are henceforth to be printed in the form known as demy quarto, and not in demy folio, as hath heretofore been used :
(b) The size of the paper used is to be such that the sheet, when folded, will be eleven inches in height and eight inches and a half in width.
(c) The type to be used in the text is pica type ; but long primer is to be used in printing accounts, tabular matter, and notes :
(d) The number of lines in each page of pica type is to be forty-seven, each line being five inches and three-quarters, or 146 millimetres.

Preparation of the Paper-Book in the Office of the Appellant's Vakil. Responsibility of such Vakil.

21. When the Appellant elects, within the twenty-one days allowed by Rule 14, to have the Paper-Book prepared in the office of his Vakil, such Vakil shall proceed to have it prepared in accordance with the directions contained in Rules 18, 19, and 20, and he shall be responsible for its proper preparation : provided that he shall not be responsible for the accuracy of the translations in any case in which they have been certified to be correct by an Examiner of Privy Council Appeals under the provisions of Rule 19. Such Vakil shall be afforded all reasonable access to the original record in order to enable him to make transcripts of the papers and do other acts necessary to the preparation of the Paper-Book, but he shall not be entitled to remove such original record from the office of the Deputy Registrar. Certified transcripts of the papers shall be furnished to him, if he so desire, upon payment of the usual rates.

Register of Vakils willing to undertake the preparation of Paper Books. Removal of name from the Register.

22. There shall be maintained in the Office of the Registrar of the Court on the Appellate Side a Register of Vakils willing to undertake the preparation of Paper-Books. Any Vakil may, upon application to such Registrar, have his name entered in this Register. No Vakil whose name has not been so entered shall be allowed to prepare a Paper-Book. A Division Bench may direct to be removed from such Register the name of any Vakil who has shown negligence, incompetence, or want of due diligence in the preparation of a Paper-Book undertaken by him.

Consequence of failure of the Appellant's Vakil to deliver the prepared Paper-Book to the Deputy Registrar within time allowed for preparation.

23. The Appellant's Vakil shall deliver the Paper-Book, when prepared by him, to the Deputy Registrar within the time allowed to the Deputy Registrar by Rule 18 for the preparation of a Paper-Book prepared in the Office of the High Court. If he fail to deliver it within the time so allowed, the Deputy Registrar shall cause the appeal to be set down for hearing before the Division Bench having jurisdiction in respect thereof. And such Bench may, unless satisfied that there was reasonable ground for such default, direct the appeal to be dismissed for want of prosecution, or may pass such other order as may seem proper under the circumstances of the case.

24. There shall ordinarily be printed thirty copies of the Paper-Book, but the Deputy Registrar may, when necessary, direct a larger number to be printed. The Appellant and Respondent shall be entitled to have, free of charge, as many copies as they have Advocates and Vakils engaged in the appeal. In any case they shall each be entitled to three copies. When the Paper-Book has been prepared by the Appellant's Vakil, he shall deliver to the Deputy Registrar the total number of copies printed, less the number which he is entitled to have under this rule, or he may upon request deliver to the Respondent the number of copies to which such Respondent is entitled under this Rule, and deliver to the Deputy Registrar the remaining copies together with the Respondent's written receipt for the copies delivered to him.

Number of copies of Paper-Book to be printed. Disposal of copies.

25. As soon as the Paper-Book has been prepared by the Deputy Registrar, or has been prepared by the Appellant's Vakil and delivered to the Deputy Registrar, such Deputy Registrar shall have the appeal entered in the List of appeals ready for hearing, and have such list hung up in the usual places in the Court-house. The appeal shall not be entered in the Peremptory Daily List of Causes until the expiry of seven days from its entry in the list of appeals ready for hearing.

When Paper-Book ready, appeal to be entered in Court Lists.

26. There shall be printed at the end of every Paper-Book, and in the following form, a statement of the cost incurred in its preparation by the Appellant and the Respondent respectively. This statement shall not include the costs (if any) incurred under Rule 19.

27. In the absence of a written contract between the Appellant or Respondent and the Vakil in whose office a Paper-Book is prepared, the cost of preparing the Appellant's or Respondent's portion of the Paper-Book may be assessed by the Taxing Officer of the Court: and such Taxing Officer shall assess it in accordance with the rates prescribed by Rule 13, upon demand by the party or the Vakil, and after notice of the time and place at which he intends to make such assessment. The assessment of the Taxing Officer made under this Rule shall be binding upon the party and the Vakil. When there is a written contract between the Respondent and the Vakil in whose office the Paper-Book is prepared concerning the charges to be made for preparing the Respondent's portion of the Paper-Book, or when such Respondent has assented in writing to the charges made by such Vakil, or when such charges have been assessed by the Taxing Officer under this Rule, the Deputy Registrar may pay such charges out of the amount deposited by the Respondent with the Accountant of the Court, provided always that such charges are not in excess of the rates prescribed by Rule 13.

29. A Division Bench may, upon application and upon sufficient cause being shown, enlarge the time prescribed by these rules for doing any act to be done under their provisions. An application for enlargement of time must ordinarily be made before the expiry of the prescribed time, and must be supported by an affidavit of facts and also by a certificate of the Deputy Registrar showing the dates on which the acts prescribed by these rules were done. Such certificate shall be granted upon payment of a fee of two rupees. A Division Bench may also, upon application and upon sufficient grounds proved by affidavit, exempt any Appellant or Respondent from the operation of the whole or any part of these Rules, or may make such special order as it deems fit as to any matter with which these Rules are concerned.

Court may upon application enlarge time—may exempt any party from operation of these rules in whole or part—or may make other special order.
